Call to Arms Syria Cry In Face of U.S. 'Threat'

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The cabinet meeting was called on the heels of a Syrian charge that five U.S. warships steamed close to the Syrian coast Sunday.

Foreign minister Salah Bitar told Syrian newspapers this country "will not be terrorized by U.S. military demonstrations or any American war of nerves against us."

"Neither military demonstrations nor a U.S. war of nerves will... make us deviate from our Arab liberation policy," he said. "On the contrary, these acts will certainly bolster our determination to adhere to our policy and defend it."

In Moscow, the Soviet army newspaper Red Star said Turkish and Israeli forces are moving toward Syrian borders. The paper, quoting unidentified press reports, also said U.S. military units have landed in Turkey to support what it called aggressive moves against Syria.

Meanwhile, Jordan's foreign minister, Samir Rifai, told reporters in Amman that Israel is a far greater threat to Jordan than Syria.

Rifai made the statement in reply to a question whether Jordan is alarmed by recent developments in Syria.

NO JUSTIFICATION

The foreign minister said Jordan does not "feel justified at all in interfering in the internal affairs of Syria." But, he added, Jordan has been waging war against communism and "will continue to do so regardless of the direction from which it comes, internally or externally."

The charge that U.S. warships approached the Syrian coast was made by a Syrian army spokesman. He added that unidentified jet fighters flew over the Syrian port of Latakia Monday.

He said Syria so far has made no protest to Washington.

In Washington, the U.S. Navy said none of its ships is operating close to the Syrian coast. A spokesman said the bulk of the U.S. 6th Fleet is in the Aegean Sea between Greece and Turkey—about 500 miles from the Syrian coast.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Heavenly Father, secure in Thy love, we would be quiet of mind and joyous of heart. Deal with us not according to our frailties, but after Thy great mercy. Deliver us from pride of spirit, prejudice of attitude, and narrowness of sympathy. May our homes be radiant with Thy presence. May our dealings with others be marked with honor and service. May our witness for Thee be clear and strong in every relationship of life and at every turn of the way. In the name of Christ we pray. Amen.

Brutal Russ Oppression Bared at UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—United States delegates Henry Cabot Lodge today called on a special session of the United Nations General Assembly to act with all speed to end "the present grim course of events" in Communist-controlled Hungary.

"The people of Hungary are being shot and imprisoned and maltreated now," Lodge told the 81-member assembly. "Their sufferings were actual and acute and demand from one day to the next to be relieved."

Lodge spoke after the Hungarian delegation sought unsuccessfully to have the assembly drop the problem.

Australia's Keith C. O. Shann, reporter of the assembly's special committee of inquiry, opened the session by presenting the committee's 150,000-word report indicting the Soviet Union and the regime of Premier Janos Kadar for suppressing the uprising of last fall.

DOUBT GONE

Shann declared there can be no doubt that the Hungarian people want freedom and that they are being subjected to brutal oppressions.

Lodge said the concern of the U.S. is that the assembly take action.

"It is not enough to accept the truth if we are too tired or too preoccupied or too timid to act upon it," he declared. "We must indeed make further efforts."

Countries supporting the plan to condemn Russia's intervention hope to back up their move by having this parliamentary session of the world organization name an intermediary—a veteran Asian diplomat—who could visit Moscow and Budapest in an attempt to bring about a withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungarian soil.

But even delegates who predicted that the Western-sponsored resolution would win assembly approval concede that any action taken at this special session is not likely to improve the lot of the Hungarian people.

Lodge, who brought about the special session and is generally regarded as chief author of the resolution, indicated that the main intention is "to keep the issue alive."

Talks to Set Reds' Future

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Poland's Wladyslaw Gomulka flew into Belgrade today for talks with President Tito expected to erect signposts for the future direction of world communism.

Gomulka, who along with Tito is the only Communist leader to have challenged the Kremlin and survived politically, headed a strong delegation that included Prime Minister Joseph Cyrankiewicz, Foreign Minister Dam Rapacki and Agriculture Minister Edward Ochab.

NO REAL CRITICISM OF GOV'T-BENNETT

The provincial by-elections campaign was unique "because there was no real criticism of the government, just a cry for a stronger opposition," Premier Bennett said Tuesday.

The results of the by-elections also showed, he said, "that the people don't want a stronger opposition," he said.

SCHOOL DYNAMITED OVER RACIAL FIGHT

Battle over school segregation reached new heights today as newly-segregated grammar school at Nashville, Tenn., was wrecked by dynamite blast. Entire east wall, examined by police, and four classrooms were demolished. One negro six-year-old student was admitted to school Monday. Below is scene at Birmingham, Ala., Monday where angry crowd of white men attacked negro pastor Rev. F. L. Shuttleworth, as he attempted to enroll several negro children in white school. ## Bomb Blast Wrecks School Where Negro Admitted

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A massive dynamite blast early today wrecked an elementary school which Monday admitted one Negro as a first-grade student. Police later arrested five men for questioning.

Three of the men were seized when they refused to move from the vicinity of another grammar school which also admitted some Negro first-graders Monday.

Police said they found at the homes of the other two men 50 feet of wire of the type used with the explosives which wrecked Hattie Cotton Grammar School.

Police said one of the two "is a suspect we'd been looking for all night."

The first three arrested were charged with unlawful possession of weapons and ordered held under bonds of $25,000 each. Hearing for the five was set for 2 Wednesday.

Deputy Police Chief F. W.

Muller said that in the car of the first three men arrested he found a dynamite detonating device, a heavily weighted billy club with "KKK" carved on the handle, two heavy wooden mallets and a length of wire of the type used in setting off explosives.

The car itself, Muller said, was plastered with numerous "KKK" signs.

The three men taken into custody by Muller were reported by him to have been seen Monday at all of the city grammar schools where there were violent anti-segregation demonstrations. Muller added that the three also had been seen at rallies held here by John Kasper, New Jersey-born segregationist.

Police meanwhile set up lines a block from the schools in all directions to prevent a repetition of Monday's turbulent demonstration by pro-segregationists on the school grounds.

The wrecked $500,000 Hattie Cotton school was one of six in which white and Negro first-graders quietly attended classes Monday for the first time; to the accompaniment of turbulent,

Faubus Summoned On School Race Issue

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A summons was served on Governor Orval Faubus today, ordering him to appear in Federal District Court Sept. 20.

Troops guarding the executive mansion opened the gates for a United States marshal who carried the order for Faubus and two subordinates to come to court for a hearing on the issuance of a preliminary injunction restraining him from further interference with enrollment of Negro students at Little Rock Central High School.

The marshal showed his credentials to an officer at the gate.

"Come in, sir," the officer said. The marshal walked through the gate alone. As he walked along the curving gravel drive toward the mansion, Faubus came out, met him half way, and accepted the summons.

The order was issued by federal district Judge Ronald Davies less than an hour after Attorney General Herbert Brownell petitioned for it.

OFFICERS NAMED

Named with Faubus were Gen. Sherman T. Clinger and Lt. Col. Marion E. Johnson, head of the National Guard detachment at the school.

At the hearing, the judge may set a date for a hearing to make the injunction permanent.

The justice department cited six points on which it contended the governor and his military officers had prevented integration at strife-torn Central High in violation of U.S. court mandates. They were:

1. The governor's order to General Clinger a week ago ordering the guard officer to place the school off limits to Negro anti-integration disorders at some.

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles said today he believes the Syrian situation will be worked out peacefully although there are elements which could lead to serious trouble.

Just one Negro was enrolled at Hattie Cotton, which has a registration of 390 in all its six grades.

Buildings three blocks away were damaged by the explosion. Power service was knocked out in some areas.

The east end of the school was blown out, leaving a hole big enough to drive a truck through.

15 NEGROES
The six grammar schools admitted a total of 15 Negro first-graders in their first step toward court-ordered desegregation of the races. There are 3,500 pupils in the first grade in all of Nashville, with whites totalling 2,000 of this number. However, not all grammar schools were involved in the "first step" integration.

The dynamite blast came only a few hours after police had dispersed a violent crowd of about 500 segregationists who were smashing windshields and windows of Negroes' automobiles with bricks and bottles as they passed Fehr school.

Fehr, which is located in a borderline Negro-white residential district, was the focal point of much of Monday's disorders. One woman was arrested twice.

Police Sgt. John Irwin said he found a detonating cap wire at the scene. He said the dynamite apparently had been exploded in the school's entrance hall. The concussion ripped through the building, blasting every window from the one-story structure.

Nashville is the largest city south of Louisville, Ky., to mix the races and the second state-supported secondary school system in Tennessee to begin desegregation.

ATTACKED

In the other integration developments Monday, Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth, a pro-integration leader at Birmingham, Ala., was attacked by a group of white men when he arrived at a school to help enroll his two daughters and three other negro children.

A policeman who went to the negro's aid also was struck and one of Shuttlesworth's children received a leg injury. Three white men were arrested.

At Dallas, Tex., a federal judge issued an order for integration to begin in the schools at mid-term, Feb. 3. Judge William H. Atwell, who twice before had granted the Dallas school board delays in carrying out integration and was overruled both times by the circuit court of appeals, issued the new order.

School integration for 110,000 pupils of Washington, D.C., schools began with a minimum of confusion. And at New York city, superintendent William Jansen of the largest school system in the U.S. maintained his stand that the integration program must not sacrifice the "neighborhood school concept." A record 1,300,000 children reported for classes in the city.

Women, Police in Clash Over Sex-Slaying Suspect

CROYDON, Eng. (Reuters)

Police pulled a fast one on a mob of howling, lynch-minded women here today to protect a prisoner charged with the sex-slaying of a four-year-old girl.

A crowd of 200 enraged females fought police outside the courthouse in this south London suburb trying to get at factory worker Derick Ed-wardson, 31, after he was formally charged with the murder of Edwina Taylor.

Shouting "let's get him out" and "turn it over," the women stormed a Black Maria in which they believed Edwardson was huddled under a rug between two policemen.

Two women tried to wrench open the back doors of the truck as it moved through the crowd. It drove off and the mob dispersed.

Two-and-a-half hours later another Maria pulled away, watched by a handful of idle passersby. Police revealed Ed-wardson was in that truck.

Court spectators jeered and booed when he was led out of court earlier. Edwardson, who gave himself up Monday night, was remanded in custody for seven days.

The child's body was found in a pile of coal in the basement of the building in which Ed-wardson lived.

Edwardson was granted free legal aid. He was brought into court through an underground tunnel to avoid the angry crowds outside. Police searched those entering court for cameras.

Police guarded all entrances to the court in this town on London's southern fringe. Thirty plainclothes police cadets mingled with the public in the gallery.

TINY JANIS loves to help her foster mother with the dishes despite her age, only two and a half, and handicap, congenital deafness. Mrs. Richard Albany keeps a little bell attached to child's shoe so she'll know where Janis is. The tot, of course, doesn't hear her calling.

'WAKES UP SMILING'

Totally-Deaf Tot Braves Fate

By TONY DICKASON

Dark, blue-eyed little Janis, aged 2½, is deaf and will always be deaf.

She's in a foster home of the Family and Children's Service which keeps a watchful eye on 150 children in Greater Victoria now living in such homes.

Janis is an appealing tyke despite her marked drawback. Soap-pink and scrubbed, she turned on a wide deep grin today as she climbed out of her morning bath.

"Always wakes up smiling," said her foster mother, Mrs. Richard L. Albany, 1215 Craigflower.

WELL WORTH IT

She loves the tot, and like any other mom sums up her reaction as "a lot of trouble, but certainly worth it."

Janis has been with her since a month old. The youngster got off to an unprepossessing start. Her eyes were badly crossed. This with congenital deafness proved a strong drawback to normal development.

Six months ago her eyes were operated on. The operation was a success and result is that little Janis no longer struggles around off balance, but walks firmly like a sturdy little princess.

But she's still deaf, and specialists who have checked her thoroughly say there is no hope of ever remedying this, even with hearing aids. Nobody knew of Janis' condition until she was a year old. "We talk to her in a normal manner. It is the only way to get Janis eventually to read lips," said practical Mrs. Albany, whom not at all incidentally, the Family and Children's Service lauds loudly for her tolerance, understanding and work with the handicapped child.

Mrs. Albany has two other children, adopted. They are Mark, 4½ and Don, 8½.

They call Janis "Little Chicken."

Little Chicken is undergoing a special course from the John Tracy Clinic of Los Angeles, designed to bring her development as quickly as possible along normal lines. She matches colored sticks, pictures and other items, associating them with lip movements.

Already she says "Mummy" and "bad," with proud enthusiasm.

CAN LEARN FAST

Once a child in Janis' position gets started, they learn as fast or faster than normal children because they sense something is wrong, and are anxious to grasp at life they realize is being missed. Janis can put groceries away, wipe the dishes with efficiency beyond her years, and helps—somewhat vaguely—to set the dinner table.

Janis is representative of what the Family and Children's Service does with its money. The service wants about $60,000 this year through the Red Feather campaign, but whether they'll get it or not is still a moot question as the budget hasn't yet had that official stamp.

But after seeing Janis, tendency is to give the F & CS every last dime they need.

Higher Business Tax Approved

Business tax assessment notices will be in the mail to Victoria merchants within four days and tax bills will follow in about one month.

City council gave final reading to its business tax by-law Monday, over objection by Ald. J. Donald Smith and Ald. E. D. McEwen.

The two dissenters were chief proponents of the scheme when it was first introduced. However, it wasn't the tax but the method of application each opposed.

The new tax, which increases the levy on Victoria business and professional firms by 50 per cent, will be charged simultaneously with trades license fees.

MUST PAY GREATER

In every case, the firm will be required to pay whichever levy is the greater.

The tax will be computed by taking an estimated 7 per cent of the assessed rental value of the premises occupied.

Ald. Smith's stand has been for a classified tax which would see various firms pay varying tax rates according to the ability to pay. Council balked at the task of arbitrarily deciding why one business should pay more than another.

PASSES 7 TO 2

Ald. McEwen felt the present trade licenses are just as arbitrary and said he could not support the pay-the-greater plan.

The vote passed with a seven-two margin.

Court of revision, which will enable the firms taxed to appeal any unfair assessment of rental value, will open at city hall October 17. It is expected to last a week. Tax notices cannot go out until the court is completed.

Hearing appeals will be Ald. Smith, Ald. M. H. Mooney, Ald. Hugh Ramsay and Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson.

Examples Illustrate How New Plan Works

Here's how Victoria's new combined business tax-trade license system will work:

All firms have now paid 1957 trade license, graduated according to the size of the firm.

Each firm has now been given an appraisal rental value based on actual rents paid in the vicinity.

City council will set a tax rate, expected to be about 7 per cent, to apply to the assessed rental value.

If the computed tax is less than the trade license fee already paid, the firm pays no more. If it is greater, the firm will pay the difference—before Christmas.

Here are some examples taken from the downtown area:

BUSINESS	TRADE LICENSE	BUSINESS TAX
Refrigerator shop (Standard)	$60	$18
Confectionery (Standard)	$40	$12
Investment house (Standard)	$120	$36
Gas station	$100	$30
Here are some extreme cases:
Department store	$4,500	$135
Department store	$5,000	$150
Bank	$600	$18
Ladies wear store	$250	$75
Confectionery (high rent area)	$40	$12

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!

Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"

Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules:

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only... Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. ## Clear Decisions at the Polls

THE RESULTS OF YESTERDAY'S provincial by-elections come as no surprise. The CCF has proved its ability to hold the Burnaby seat for so many years by the late Ernest Winch and Social Credit has retained the Delta and Cariboo constituencies. In each contest the winning candidate established a commanding margin over the runner-up.

But if the outcome was not unexpected, the story told by the votes for some unsuccessful candidates cannot be ignored. Particularly is this the case in Burnaby where Arthur Laing, leader of the provincial Liberals finished in fourth place. The by-election there took on the character of a personal test for Mr. Laing. Defeated in the provincial general election last year in his home constituency, he was faced with the challenge of asserting his popularity with the voters of a neighboring district. Had he been able to capture the seat his position as Liberal leader would have been greatly strengthened. He was unable to accomplish that objective.

Under the circumstances, it is expected that he will step down in favor of some other figure considered of broader public appeal and capable of again welding the party to political strength in British Columbia. This is the essential task before the Liberals. It must be undertaken without loss of time.

Straight Talk From a Neighbor

PRIME MINISTER DIEFENBAKER minced no words in addressing an audience at Hanover, New Hampshire, last weekend. It was the first time in three years that a Canadian Government leader had spoken in the United States. His speech should do much to clarify U.S.-Canadian relations.

Mr. Diefenbaker's remarks centred on three main topics: the effect of U.S. trade policies on Canada's wheat industry; the inequality of trade between the two countries as a result of American tariffs; and the problem raised by large-scale U.S. ownership of Canadian industries.

What the Prime Minister said was in the line of remarks made earlier this year by Mr. Lester Pearson before an American audience. But coming from the head of the Canadian Government, his words can be interpreted as the forerunner of possible Canadian action. Although Mr. Diefenbaker made clear that he was not uttering threats, at the same time he also stressed that he was not speaking in a "spirit of petition."

His words, said the president of Dartmouth College where the Prime Minister was a guest, constituted "perhaps the straightest statement ever made in friendship and peacetime by a chief of government to another friendly nation."

It would be of little value for Mr. Diefenbaker to have spoken as he did unless his Government has in mind some proposals to rectify the objectionable features he described. These, if in existence, have not been made public.

The American policy of giving away surplus wheat and tying up future purchases with such gifts had seriously interfered with Canada's export markets, the Prime Minister said.

Canada is the United States' largest customer, and the United States is Canada's, he reminded his hearers, yet Canada, because of high tariffs, could export little more than raw materials to the United States, with the result that last year there was a deficit of $1.3 billions with that country.

About 60 per cent of Canada's main manufacturing industries and a large proportion of our mine and oil production are controlled by American capital, Mr. Diefenbaker said. Yet of the U.S. firms operating in Canada three-fourths do not offer stock to Canadian investors.

In plain language the Prime Minister put these grievances before the American public, which, says the New York Times, "will do well to ponder deeply and seriously the warning given us."

Obviously Mr. Diefenbaker has invited action by Washington. This was a national declaration by the United States' most important neighbor and closest ally. These were complaints of inequitable treatment by a large power of its smaller friend.

There can be no thought, for instance, of launching upon a tariff war, in retaliation. Nor can Canada enter into competition with the U.S. in giving away wheat. But there are less drastic courses which Mr. Diefenbaker may have in mind.

As he, and Mr. Pearson before him, have pointed out, where there is military interdependence and co-operation such as we have on this continent, there should also be economic co-operation. This, in large measure, is lacking at the moment. The next move should be Washington's.

Objections Down the Drain

THE CURRENT CONTROVERSY over the city-by-law relating to provision of sinks in housekeeping rooms has revealed a number of facts not previously appreciated by the public.

One of these is that the regulation requiring rented housekeeping accommodation to have adequate plumbing is not a new law. It has been on the books since 1949. There has been adequate time, it would appear, in which to make arrangements to conform with legal requirements.

It is a mistake to imagine that the regulations are designed to inflict hardship on any persons concerned. Obviously they deal with premises in the low-rental group, and affect landlords and tenants not able to make large investments or pay high monthly rates. But Alderman Mrs. Lily Wilson has made it clear that every consideration will be given to cases requiring it.

There should be no difficulties where a reasonable effort is made to conform to necessary sanitary conditions. Proper sanitation is the principal concern of the legislation, and this obviously is in the best interest of both landlord and tenant. Where conditions are so far out of line as to constitute a health hazard to one or both parties, it is difficult to support arguments against improvement. Such improvement is the only intent of the law.

Much of the opposition—and it is confined to a very small minority of property owners affected—no doubt derives from fear that needed alterations may cost too much and force the landlord out of business. There should be very few instances, under a reasonable application of the law, where this would occur.

The law, after all, sets only a minimum standard. It is hardly realistic to expect civic authorities to permit pensioners or other low-income tenants to endure conditions which fall radically below such a minimum. The law is a protective one, and should be observed in all cases.

The PNE: A Good Show

ALTHOUGH VANCOUVER'S Pacific National Exhibition did not quite attain its 1954 record attendance of 871,000 last week, it surpassed the performance of the past two years and continues to grow in an impressive way.

The PNE is now Canada's second biggest fair and fifth largest on the North American continent. Much excellent work has been done by the public-spirited directors who guide its destinies. Buildings and grounds have been improved; large public spaces and a fountain square have been created; excellent new shows (like CPA's "Hawaiian Show") have been added, and the general tone of the exhibition raised.

The agriculture, flower and hobby shows seem to improve each year and the 1957 Shrine circus—without which no exhibition would be complete—was greatly admired by all who saw it.

To the casual visitor, the PNE seems to be in the transition stage, attempting to keep pace with the truly astonishing development of the mainland city. The vast main promenade, which has let light and air into the grounds, was sorely needed; now it needs to be beautified. The strategic placement of some shrubs and flowers—or perhaps the "Flags of All Nations," or "Crests of All British Columbia Cities"—might provide just the touch of ornamental decor which is needed to round this out.

With its matchless site, and with a strong economy behind it, there is no reason at all why the PNE should not eventually assume front rank among the nation's show pieces. Victoria has done well to support the PNE by entering an attractive float in the parade, as well as many individual exhibits in the various shows, and congratulates the mainland city on the excellent progress it is making at Hastings Park.

In Search of Canada

THE reader must now prepare himself, with such fortitude as he can summon, for the absence of this column during the next few weeks. When these tidings appear, D.V., the writer will not be communing with the public but a less intelligent audience in the high Rockies.

Why an aged man, who might so easily, bask on the beaches of California or in the splendid glitter of Las Vegas, should choose to spend his holidays on the back of a horse and under the indifferent shelter of canvas is a nice point which I am unable to explain.

A pack trip into the mountains is expensive, uncomfortable and, at times, slightly dangerous. It is, indeed, quite crazy. People ask me why I propose to waste my precious days of vacation on such a mad adventure and I find it difficult to answer.

IT IS not enough to say, though it is true, that vanity is the main cause of this absurd adventure, as of most human activities.

A man vainly tries to stem the advancing years and pretend that he is as good as ever on a horse. He likes to think, poor fellow, that he is still a man and not an appendage to an automobile, even if this notion is patently untrue. He somehow persuades himself in advance that he enjoys the discomfort of freezing nights in the higher altitudes, food ill-cooked over a camp fire, smoky tea and bodily contusions of all sorts when he is fit only for an easy chair and a television screen.

But there is a little more to it than that. My companions and I are going, or think we are going, to have a look at Canada.

THE reader, being a more sensible creature, will say that we shall not see much of Canada on a march of perhaps 50 miles or so, that in a fraction of this time, and with no effort at all, we could fly the whole length of Canada, or see it unfold in orderly procession from the window of a train or a car.

If one seeks still more facts about the nation, they are readily and freely obtainable from libraries of books or blizzards of government pamphlets and oceans of statistics issued, without charge (except to the taxpayers) by a wise government.

Nevertheless, we hold in our ignorance that most people, though well travelled and well read, never really see Canada at all. To be sure, they see its surface; they see it as a moving picture in two dimensions, but by the ordinary methods they cannot see below the surface or behold the third dimension, much less the fourth, which is always invisible.

As Our Readers See It

Milk Prices

The responsible propagandist should in the first place be armed with incontestable facts and figures, for how otherwise can his arguments be properly regarded by the uninformed?

The temerity of Frank L. Partridge is beyond the bounds of credulity for he seeks to influence the reader by quoting random figures entirely out of context and in a manner calculated to misrepresent and mislead.

In his original letter, the statements of Mr. Partridge regarding the earnings and fringe benefits of dairy workers and drivers were definite and categorical. They were also inaccurate and, grossly exaggerated, and calculated to present a false conception regarding the earnings of rank and file personnel.

He now seeks to justify his use of figures palpably inaccurate by stating that they were received by him in "good faith," although a routine check from obvious sources would have readily revealed the true facts. It is safe to assume that many a wife has regarded her husband with grave suspicion after reading his letter!

Management and employees both are sensible to the need of supplying milk to the consumer at lowest economic cost, and notwithstanding problems of supply peculiar to this island the fact remains that the price of this essential commodity has been stable over a period of years, during which bread, meat, sugar, in fact all staples including butter, Mr. Partridge, have advanced to the dictates of the market.

Satisfied With Circle

According to press reports, the fountain circle has served its purpose for traffic control. I have driven this circle since it was constructed approximately six years ago and always considered it an effective control for the six intersections and it has been remarkably free of accidents.

Driving to the city every day for approximately one year at 8 a.m., the rush hour, I have experienced little difficulty. However, just why it should be necessary to send to the U.S.A. to get expert advice at great expense is past my reasoning powers. I have been in traffic jams and completely stalled in Seattle. What is wrong with a traffic engineer from Toronto, one of the most congested cities on this continent?

Let us hope they give us better advice than they use. Just recently they adopted a new control that completely stalled traffic and had to be abandoned.

Plea to Victoria

May I, on behalf of the members of the WA to the Royal Jubilee Hospital, remind the public that on Saturday the annual tag day will be held.

For over 50 years this auxiliary has been working to provide extra comfort for patients in the maternity and general wards; also, in cases of serious illness, providing special nurses for those whose circumstances normally preclude such extra expense.

In addition, as a second objective, we support the Victoria Cancer Clinic financially and otherwise. We therefore appeal to the general public to support us generously on Sept. 14. Anyone willing to assist us by tagging is asked to phone 3-7718.

MARIAN CORBY,

President, WA, Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Integration

The city of Little Rock, Ark., is in the news over the integration of colored pupils into the former white schools. Integration demands democratic procedure. And under the dictum that all men are created equal, democracy sees only the Stars and Stripes, the flag that upholds integration. But integration begins in the heart and not with the flag, hence the disturbances which follow judicial decisions. This must be until heart and mind recognize their dual relationship in support of a common cause.

America cannot tolerate educational segregation and at the same time discharge the legal obligations of its Declared Purposes. The nation asks for no distinction in citizenship. And democracy without justice—perish the thought!

Likewise, while Canadians are aware of the problem confronting their neighbor, they realize color involves circumstances beyond the individual's control and penalization is not man's prerogative where homo sapiens is brother and sister under the skin. Racial complexion being a component of the spectrum of humanity is judged accordingly.

The white man has his future,

The Negro has his, too;

And integration makes it plain

The old gives way to new!

'Where a Little Means So Much'

During its 12 years of operation, the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada has built up an impressive record of service to humanity in Europe, the Middle East and Southeast Asia. Since 1945, the USC, the only all-Canadian agency working in these areas, has shipped more than 6½ million pounds of relief supplies abroad, and brought shelter, food, clothing and education to literally thousands.

Since 1945, this voluntary, non-denominational organization has sponsored over 4,000 orphaned and often mutilated children under its "Foster Parent" scheme, which has provided affection and security to these disinherited victims of war and poverty.

To continue its vital work, the committee is launching a nation-wide campaign today. The objective of $140,000, largest in USC history, must be reached by Christmas Day.

As always, current projects lay emphasis on self-help. Assistance is never given as a handout, but humbly and wisely, earning for Canada the gratitude of the people helped. The Unitarian Service Committee is truly Canada's ambassador at grass root level.

Since its inception in 1945, the USC has never been an impersonal charity, for its supporters actively participate in its work abroad. They share in this venture which combines the imaginative with the practical through yearly surveys by the director, who investigates conditions on the spot and works out every project with those it will serve.

The USC is one of the few channels open to Canadians to do something tangible to assist the world's destitute and let them know how their aid is being dispensed. The USC renders that kind of friend-to-friend aid which large government and international agencies cannot supply.

The committee has spread Canada's name and won recognition in far-away countries. It has also won a place in the hearts of Canadians from every province. Donations, large and small, when channelled through the USC and combined with the intangibles of good will and friendship, work miracles out of all proportion to the actual amount given, for USC aid is dispensed where a little means so much, regardless of creed or nationality.

To continue this vital work, the Unitarian Service Committee needs $140,000 by Christmas Day at its national headquarters, 78 Sparks Street, Ottawa. It deserves the wholehearted support of every Canadian.

DR. LOTTA HITSCHMANOVA,

Executive Director, Unitarian Service Committee.

B.C.'s 'SHOW WINDOW'

By C. M. DEFIEUX

Bigger and Better Next Year

RECORD attendance of 820,193 has proved most gratifying to directors of the Pacific National Exhibition and consolidated the big fair's position as fifth largest, attendance-wise, on the continent. But the 11-day show which concluded on Labor Day has pointed up the urgency of its development plans.

While attractions, merriment on the Gayway and commercial exhibits, are financial backbones of the exhibition the competitive departments such as horticulture, livestock, 4-H, poultry and home arts are foremost in the minds of PNE officials. These are the basis of all agricultural fairs and the success and progressive growth of these departments are zealously sought by the big exhibition at Vancouver.

It is not generally recognized that the competitive departments are non-revenue-producing except for some $3,000 obtained in small entry fees necessary to maintain control. This year the PNE spent well in excess of $100,000 in staging these departments at the fair, a sum which also includes prize money. Entries in the competitive departments reached record levels again this year and this was most pronounced in the livestock department. Indications are that the forthcoming Centennial Year PNE, which will be expanded to 14 days ending Labor Day, may impose critical problems in the matter of space in all departments.

Livestock committee heads have already been advised that the big state herds from California, Oregon and Washington would like to be invited next year. These are in addition to cattle herds, also horses and other types of livestock privately owned by breeders in Washington and the Prairie provinces.

The situation in the livestock barns not only concerns stall accommodation but also show ring facilities urgently needed for so long. The PNE is the only major fair on the continent without adequate show ring facilities.

Difficulties would have been relieved if the proposed Coliseum could have gone through last December when Vancouver ratepayers were asked to contribute one-half of the $1,000,000 the city was asked to pay in matching federal and provincial grants of $1,000,000 each. The bylaw was defeated.

Enlarged livestock accommodation facilities are included in the five-year development plan of the city of Vancouver which holds title to the land and buildings of the fair. The PNE has to use civic borrowing power but in all cases except Empire Stadium, a civic project, has paid interest and sinking fund requirements.

PNE directors are cognizant of some opinions that the fair is always the same. It must remain unchanged basically. Their control of commercial exhibitors has its limitations and, in fact, the PNE in this sense is no different from the Canadian National Exhibition, the world's largest annual fair. It does have direct control, however, on its hobby, mink, cat and dog shows, the competitive departments and attractions. In these branches the directors are tireless in their desire for annual change, commensurate of course with the economic position of the fair.

Construction of a new Gayway near the appearance and operation of the grounds in the Centennial Year. It is the first step in a general make-over of the grounds and layout co-ordinated with new buildings urgently needed to provide the change sought just as avidly by the directors as the public.

PNE directors are also cognizant of the fact that they were blessed with excellent weather this year, a potent factor in reaching the 820,000 attendance mark. They also realize that this figure is 50,000 below the record year of 1954, the last year when the advance sale of admission tickets with prizes was effective.

There is an atmosphere of satisfaction around the PNE since the close of the fair. There is also an acute awareness of many problems to be overcome, problems of accommodation and "rain insurance" through an advance sale, if they are to produce a Centennial Fair they feel worthy of the province which directors and committee members in their hundreds serve voluntarily in staging the annual "Show Window" of British Columbians.

The Spirit Wanders

THERE is an understandable awkwardness between my fingers and my typewriter keys. These are old acquaintances renewing associations after a long separation. There are embarrassing pauses in their communication.

The calendar says they have been apart about three weeks. It might as well have been 30 centuries. The typewriter has lain idle, comfortable under its dust cover, sleeping away the golden days of late August and early September. The fingers have been curling and growing stiff from the ancient labors of those unskilled hands that did the bull work while the pyramids were being built.

The hands, slave hands, have been piling block on block (cement, weighing 42 pounds and costing 32 cents apiece) in a certain large hole by a certain lake less than 30 miles away. They have reached back in history to the days when man's story was written on papyrus and, I think, in blood.

Garbled and twisted, the fingers lend themselves unwillingly to the persuasive task of setting down words to woo a reader. They have a rigid honesty about them uncomfortable in column writing.

Yet they can be forced to the job, even as they were forced reluctantly to the more constructive if equally inept tasks of welding a left-handed trowel, cushioning the fall of one 42-pound block on another 42-pound block and sandpapering themselves raw on the sabre-toothed silica of masonry.

CAMPAIGN OF DESTRUCTION

Last vacation was planned as a vacation to take the joy out of the idea of vacations. It was to be so filled with unremitting toil that a return to the office would be pleasure.

There was labor in my holiday, back-breaking labor. There were the vexing exactions of unfamiliar building, with the demands for plumb lines and level surfaces, the inexorable hardening of ill-mixed mortar and its constant goad to get on with the job while the mixture was workable.

Yet to any man who returns to nature—though he tries to be an operative mason when he makes that return—there are flashes of an enjoyment permitted even in his agonies of broken hands and screaming muscles.

There is the wonder of the morning when the sun shoves up above an eastern hill, rolls back the mist on the lake and gives the water a limpid clarity. There are the muted sounds of nature wakening—the flutter of bird wings, the querulous chatter of a squirrel, the water sounds of trout on an early rise, the shout of a small boy fresh wakened to the adventure of a new day.

There is the upside-down reflection of surrounding forests clean washed on the lake surface, sharper in the natural mirror than in the original.

There is the smell of a rain shower among the trees, and the transformation rain makes in the aroma that lifts from a dry dirt road.

LIGHT AND SHADOW

There is the light that comes obliquely through the trees at evening to focus on the fronds of ferns and the fresh foliage of cedar and hemlock shaded from the glare of full day.

There is the glow of sun on red arbutus bark and the sheen on the chartruse underlayer where the paper-thin cover has peeled away.

There is the September music of crickets just before dusk and the abrasive croaking of a tree frog, so far removed from the spring symphony of his swamp cousins.

To a man who labored on vacation there come clear pictures of those moments which give life its brightness. There is refreshment in recollection of idle minutes by the lake at the end of the day when evening brought purple to the more distant hills, filled with richer shadow the gullies closer to home and wrapped the timber-covered islands in repose.

My fingers fumble with the typewriter keys, refusing to set down the words that it's good to be back. And my spirit rides a canoe under a big, pale moon on the night-black waters of a lake not far away. Perhaps the spirit will come back to work soon, too.

Sow Soon for Early Sweet Peas

Our first year in Saanich was marked by a large bouquet of outdoor-grown sweet peas from a neighbor on Mother's Day.

Jack

We thought this exceptionally early for outdoor blooms, but it was repeated many times in succeeding years.

The seed was sown on south side of a shed in late September or early October. The prepared trench was a few feet out from the building because the sloping roof, minus any gutter, dumped the winter rainfall almost directly down the shed wall.

There was no concrete foundation to dry out the soil, and the trench, well supplied with manure and compost, soaked up its requirement of moisture as the excess water seeped away.

The seed was sown more thickly than would be done in spring, allowing for some loss by rot or to rodents. Good drainage was present through the natural slope of the land, but the copious drenchings seemed beneficial.

The secret seemed to lie in a deep trench with quantities of humus, plenty of moisture and a southern exposure. As the plants made growth in the fall, the trench was gradually filled in to protect top growth from frost damage, and by January the plants were almost covered with soil, and a little loose straw was added when the temperature went low without a snow covering.

Many gardeners may like to try a fall sowing of sweet peas, and it should be successful if concrete foundations and heavy clay soils are avoided, the trench made really deep (some say three feet) and filled with humus, and a location chosen which traps the winter warmth but provides shelter on the north and east.

Does Blow Cause Cancer

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

MANY women think that if they get a blow somewhere as on the breast, it will produce cancer. Experts do not believe this. They think it far more likely that when, in a crowd, a woman's breast is bumped by someone's elbow, and the next week she finds a cancer, that this must have been growing there unnoticed for many months.

Physicians think it possible that repeated blows on one part of the body might, in the course of years, lead to the formation of a cancer. I used to wonder about this, because, for over 50 years, in perussing chests and abdomens, I have kept hitting the middle finger of my left hand with the tip of the middle finger of my right hand. Throughout all these years the little bone which has been struck so many thousands of times has always been sore and a little swollen, but so far, thank goodness, no cancer has developed. I cannot remember hearing of any doctor who ever suffered from cancer of the finger bone produced in this way.

VARICOSE VEINS

Enlarged veins constitute one of the commonest ailments afflicting people—and particularly stout women. The fact that the veins enlarge badly only in the legs shows that something fails in the mechanism which helps the venous blood to flow up the leg and thigh to the abdomen and eventually to the right side of the heart. To aid this upward flow and to keep the veins from dilating enormously the Great Designer built in a series of valves which permit the blood to flow upward, but keep it from falling back toward the feet. When the veins enlarge and get as big as a little finger, these valves are so pulled out of shape they no longer work. Naturally, then, things go from bad to worse.

The primary cause of varicose veins is not well understood. The disease affects more women than men, and it affects mainly stout women who have borne children. Some persons may well have a hereditary tendency to poor veins. Theoretically, a job that calls for standing all day should make the veins dilate more than they would if the person could work sitting down.

Many persons get by well enough for years without any treatment more than the use of an elastic bandage or stocking. Such support for the veins can help a lot. When something more has to be done, the best treatment consists of removing the big veins by a process called "stripping."

When people neglect varicose veins they can get, first, a brown spot and, later, an ulcer on the leg just above the inner side of the ankle. Such an ulcer sometimes has to be covered with skin grafts, if it is to be healed.

IS CIVILIZATION WRECKING OUR HEALTH?

Many persons assume that the strain of the strenuous life in modern civilization is wrecking our health and giving us heart attacks, ulcers, and nervous breakdowns. But I wonder. It is true that the pace of life is strenuous and very hard on certain leaders in big business, but I suspect that, for the most part, the men who rise from the ranks to become top executives are tough enough to "take it." If they hadn't been tough enough to stand a furious pace they would not have reached the top. Many of the policy-making executives whom I have known as patients were strong, rugged men whose body and brain seemed to be able to stand any amount of abuse. That overwork does not necessarily kill a man or even age him excessively is shown by the fact that there are many physicians who have worked hard, day and night, for 50 years, and are still well-prepared.

My impression is that life wasn't always so easy in the Middle Ages, or even 100 years ago. Without telephones and telegraphs, the tempo of business was doubtless slowed, but there were many worries. Many ships bearing cargoes were sunk by pirates or privateers and never heard from. In the days when wars were almost constant, when there was no certain justice in the courts, when the roads were infested with robbers, and when every man had to go armed, life must have had its anxieties. Also, when physicians had a few medicines of any value for the very ill, when surgery was in its infancy, and when there was no asepsis and no anaesthesia, many persons with poor health must have had good reason to be anxious about their future.

TWO-YEAR PACT AVERTS STRIKE BY ENGINEERS

Acceptance of a two-year contract by 1,500 B.C. operating engineers, including 500 on Vancouver Island, has averted a strike.

A spokesman Monday said a large majority of the men voted to accept a 10 per cent wage increase this year and an 8 per cent raise in 1958. Decision turned aside a previous vote favoring a strike.

Youth Braved Driving Dare; Goes to Jail

Twenty-year-old Leroy F. Bobroske, convicted in Esquimalt police court of criminal negligence, was sentenced Monday to one month in jail.

In addition, the youth was fined $50 for driving while his licence was under suspension.

Bobroske, of 1068 Colville, was driver of a car which crashed into a parked car at Colville and Admirals, sending the first parked auto in another and causing damage estimated at more than $3,500.

Police quoted the driver as saying:

"I was with Mantha (owner of the car) . . . He said I was scared, so I drove to show him who was scared."

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's year. Earnings from exports of goods and services edged downward, while payments for imports increased.

For the half-year, receipts from exports edged upward to $3,051,000,000 from $3,021,000,000 last year, while payments for imports scored a heavier rise to $3,965,000,000 from $3,819,000,000.

In the six months, the Canadian adverse balance with the U.S. increased to $1,003,000,000 from $941,000,000 last year. The surplus with the U.K. dropped to $52,000,000 from $103,000,000.

This deficit—increasing from $798,000,000 in the first half of 1956—was financed entirely by heavy imports of capital, a significant part of which developed from floating new security issues in the United States, the bureau of statistics reported today.

"The balance of indebtedness to other countries which was estimated at $9,500,000,000 at the end of 1956 was well over $10,000,000,000 by the middle of 1957.

"A substantial increase also occurred in non-resident investments in Canada, which at the end of 1956 had a value of $15,400,000,000, or more than double the corresponding total in 1948. Of this total in 1956, over $11,600,000,000 was owned in the U.S., $2,700,000,000 in the United Kingdom and $1,100,000,000 in other countries, chiefly western Europe."

Of the $914,000,000 half-year deficit, $507,000,000 was built up in the second quarter, April-June. This was an all-time high for the quarter and compared with $435,000,000 in the corresponding three months last year.

Maynards to Hold Own Fire Sale

First fire sale of its own in 56 years of operations will be held tonight by Maynard and Sons Auctioneers, 733 Johnson. Between 250 and 300 lots of widely assorted articles will go on the block at 7:30 p.m. Bulk of the lots will be sold in the Olympic Garage next door but the overflow will be auctioned in the recently burned out Maynard rooms.

Almost every type of article will go under the hammer including bedroom suites, chest-of-drawers, washing machines, deep freezers, refrigerators, golf clubs, lawn mowers, kitchen suites and pianos.

"We've thrown out everything that can't be refinished," assistant manager Larry Wood said. "All the articles going on sale can be fixed up."

Their damage ranges from moderate to light as a result of water, smoke or fire.

Maynard's has conducted fire sales for clients previously and judging by past experience tonight's sale "should produce a busy evening with lots of lively bidding," Mr. Wood said.

CAREFUL, PEEWEE, REMEMBER THAT AWARD

Although Peewee Bradshaw (right) was later to receive Laurie Dillabaugh Memorial Trophy as Victoria Shamrock player best combining ability and sportsmanship, he appears willing to discard sportsmanship ideals in this tiff with Nanaimo's Dave Paterson during fifth game of western Canada lacrosse playoff at Memorial Arena Monday night. Although referee Earl MacDonald hustles in to prevent possible eruption, Peewee held temper, later broke away from Dave to score two goals as Rocks won, 15-7.

YANKS WANT INSURANCE

Buy It Now, Collect Later

By United Press

The Yankees never take any chances, so even with a fat 51-1/2-game lead and Mickey Mantle back in uniform, they bought a bit of added pennant insurance today by acquiring outfielder Bobby Del Greco from the Chicago Cubs.

Mantle, feeling "much better" after a four-day stay in the hospital because of shin splints, was given the green light to play against Cleveland tonight if he wants and he indicated he would. He still trails ailing Ted Williams in the fight for the batting crown, 369 to 376.

Although Hank Bauer, recovering from a broken bone in his right thumb, also may be ready to face the Indians, the Yankees felt they could use another experienced outfielder for the stretch run. Hence, the purchase of the 24-year-old Del Greco from the Cubs.

Del Greco has seen previous major league service with the Pirates and Cardinals as well as the Cubs.

UP FROM MONTREAL

The chunky, right-handed hitting outfielder spent most of the current season with Montreal of the International League, from where the Cubs recalled him Monday. He had a .278 batting average that included seven home runs in 118 games with the Royals.

"He's young, though, and he could help us the next few weeks," explained a Yankee spokesman.

In any case, the Yankees, with 16 games remaining, take on the western invaders for the last time this season. Right-hander Bob Turley, the World champs' most consistent pitcher recently, will face Southpaw Don Mossi of the Tribe tonight.

After tonight's game and one Wednesday with Cleveland, the Yanks will have a first-hand opportunity to widen their lead against the second-place Chicago White Sox, whom they meet Friday and Saturday.

Casey Stengel said lefty Bobby Shantz will pitch against Cleveland Wednesday and that it will be Whitey Ford and Tom Sturdivant against the White Sox. Billy Pierce and Dick Donovan are Al Lopez' nominees to go against the Yankees.

Over in the National League, where the Milwaukee Braves also have a 5 1/2 game lead, they face the happy prospect of playing 15 of their 18 remaining games at home.

Frank Asks And Gets Apology

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Province Monday night printed a telegram from coach Frank Filchock of Saskatchewan Roughriders, demanding an apology for a statement made by columnist Eric Whitehead after quarterback Tommy Vann of the British Columbia Lions was injured in a Western Interprovincial Football Union game.

Vann was injured in a Labor Day game at Regina and is expected to be out for the season. Filchock's telegram said in part: "Concerned by implications in Whitehead's column, Roughriders team has never been instructed to injure a man and no specific instructions were issued to any Roughriders player to injure a man in regards to Vann."

In a previous column, Whitehead had represented Filchock as saying, in an imaginary conversation: "The key man is the quarterback... get him early and we've got the game."

Monday night, in a column entitled "An apology to Frank Filchock," Whitehead said: "It is no plain that no such thoughts entered his head, and this is a very fine thing for football."

Irish Lead Playoff Again As Nanaimo Humbled, 15-7

Shamrocks 15, Timbermen 7

By DOUG PEDEN

That stretch of highway between Victoria and Nanaimo has been blamed for shaking the daylight out of a host of trucks and cars, but apparently it has its worst effect on lacrosse machines.

Somewhere along the ribbon of blacktop and potholes boxla confidence and ability bounce off the bus.

Victoria Shamrocks have made one less trip over the heartbreak highway since the Western Canada senior lacrosse final opened and, as a result, are leading Nanaimo Timbermen, 3-2, in the best-of-seven series. And unless the pattern changes, the teams will decide it all in a seventh game at Memorial Arena Friday.

Shamrocks knocked another support from under the shaky trophy shelf on which the T-Men keep the Mann Cup when they followed the trend and carved out a 15-7 triumph.

Hustle, Checking Made the Difference

Operating from a defence position, Northrup, who scored four goals Saturday, rolled around Don Ashbee to even the count at 1-1 and later combined with Don Sherry and Alan Gill for a picture goal to make it 2-2 while Nanaimo's Bud Dumont was serving a wrap-around penalty.

Peewee Bradshaw sent the Irish out in front before the period ended and after Bert Bertio and Northrup boosted the lead to 5-2 early in the second session, the Shamrocks never appeared in danger of losing.

They were leading, 8-2, at the half and carried an 11-6 margin into the final quarter.

Hustle and some rugged checking made much of the difference.

Bob, Harold Share Boxing Honors

Hard-hitting all the way, the move paid off as the unit collected five goals, two each by Bradshaw and Dobbie and a single tally by Severson, who also picked up four assists in his best effort of the season.

Bert Bertio, in another hustle performance, Gill and Lew Landess also fired two goals each for the Rocks. Don Ashbee, who scored four goals for Nanaimo Saturday, broke through for two tallies while another veteran, Arnie Dugan, paced the Timbermen with three scoring shots. Gogle Stewart, also a four-goal man Saturday, had to work late. Whitey Severson moved in on missed the first half and man, the Shamrocks' first line with aged only one goal against the Dobbie and Bradshaw. The stubborn Irish defence.

Ex-Stamps Add Salt to Old Cut

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two former Calgary Stampers plunged for fourth-quarter touchdowns Monday night as Edmonton Eskimos handed Stampers their first defeat of the Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

The loss, in their fifth start, knocked the Cowboys out of first place, left the team undefeated and allowed Eskies to take over the top spot with five wins in six games.

Johnny Bright, cut adrift from the Stampers in 1954 and with Edmonton since, and Normie Kwong, playing his eighth season with the Eskimos after two with Calgary, each counted a touchdown in Edmonton's 22-2 victory.

The hard-running fullbacks broke open the tight Calgary defence and made a close game into a rout.

ZICKOFFOORE INJURED

Calgary's loss was more than the two points in the league standings. First-string import Charlie Zickoffore suffered torn ligaments in the second quarter and the outstanding end from Kansas may be lost for two or more weeks.

The 22-year-old end was a large factor in making Otis Douglas' defensive line one of the best in the league. Until Monday night Calgary's opposition had only scored an average of 12 points a game.

End Joe Mobra converted both Eskimo touchdowns and kicked field goals in each of the second and fourth quarters. Edmonton also scored two singles, one on halfback Ken Hall's first-quarter quick kick and the other on Mobra's kick in the second quarter.

Calgary counted twice on singles, in the first quarter on halfback Ted Duncan's kick and in the second on fullback Al Pollard's attempted field goal.

The standings could be juggled next weekend with Lions in Edmonton and Winnipeg in Calgary Saturday, and on Monday with Winnipeg at Vancouver and Calgary at Regina.

PEEWEE SEEING DOUBLE AS AWARDS PRESENTED

Victoria's Peewee Bradshaw was collecting things in pairs at Memorial Arena Monday night.

Bradshaw, who fired two goals and earned two assists as Shamrocks whipped Nanaimo Timbermen in the fifth game of the western Canada lacrosse final, also received two awards during a half-time ceremony.

Previously honored as the Rocks' most popular player, the chunky forward was presented with the Laurie Dillabaugh Memorial Trophy for being selected the Victoria player best combining ability, sportsmanship and inspirational value to his team during the season.

He also received the Maitland Trophy, the annual award for the Intercity Lacrosse League's most valuable player, which was announced last week.

LOCKSTEP STROLL NO GOOD

Mounties Need Change of Pace

By United Press

The goose eggs were dropping like hail stones in the Pacific Coast League Monday night.

Seattle's Charley Rabe hurled a one-hitter to defeat Hollywood, 1-0; Art Houtteman of Vancouver tossed a two-hitter to down Portland, 7-1; and Steve Bilko of Los Angeles, aiming for a PCL home run record, had a "no-hitter" as San Francisco trimmed the Angels, 7-4.

San Diego staged a four-run rally in the ninth inning to defeat Sacramento, 7-5, in the loop's other contest.

Rabe (16-9) lost his no-hitter on a pitch that didn't even get out of the infield. Tony Bartolome laid down a punt and beat the play to first. Only four other Stars got on base. One was hit by a pitched ball, two were walked, and the other made it on an error.

Houtteman served up an even neater job for the Mounties as he balanced his record at 5-5. He allowed only three Beavers on the basepaths, but lost his shutout in the second when Luis Marquez singled, stole second, reached third on an error, and came home on a sacrifice. It was the first Mountie error in five games.

Bilko, who is admittedly aiming beyond the fence to get the five homers he needs to top Tony Lazzeri's record of 44, apparently had his sights off. He failed to hit in four attempts.

Power Play Aids United Surge to Top

LONDON (Reuters) — Manchester United, English soccer league champions, took a two-point lead in the first division standing Monday night.

They trounced Blackpool 4-1 on their opponents' ground while their nearest rivals, newly-promoted Nottingham Forest, were losing 3-1 at Burnley.

United's power play was too much for Blackpool, who conceded two goals in the first nine minutes. Jackie Mudie, Blackpool forward, got his club's only goal—his 100th in league football—two minutes before the end.

Nottingham Forest's defeat was their first this season. They played skillful soccer, but two quick goals by Alan Shackleton early in the game gave Burnley a lead they never relinquished.

Unionist Pledges Rackets Cleanup Drive

WASHINGTON (UP)—AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer William F. Schnitzler said today the labor movement will "finish the job" of cleaning out racketeers and crooks within its ranks.

He also asserted that organized labor has stricter ethical standards than many business concerns.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the AFL-CIO transit workers' convention here, Schnitzler said the AFL-CIO, the nation's major labor federation, will be stronger because of the clean-up drive.

"We don't want the guy who extorts from an employer, or who sells out his own members, or who consorts with racketeers, or who dips into the union treasury," Schnitzler said.

"And what's more we are in the process of ridding ourselves of all this vermin that has infected the trade union movement."

Schnitzler said the AFL-CIO ethical practices code contains the basic standards of morality and decency of the trade movement and not "fancy language" or "pious platitudes."

"Either you are honest or you are crooked," he said. "There's no middle ground."

Schnitzler contended the labor movement is more concerned with ethical practices than some business leaders.

"Corporation officials think nothing of morals as they do everything necessary to make a fast buck," he said.

He accused the advertising profession of "false and extravagant claims" and said ads are "at worst, immoral and unethical."

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Thirteen persons, mostly children, died of encephalitis sleeping sickness since an outbreak two weeks ago in four southern provinces of South Korea, health authorities said today. A total of 50 were stricken.

U.S. Youths to Study Canada

A Los Angeles school teacher received unexpected news from her principal last week. She would be required henceforth to teach young Los Angeles the history and geography of Canada.

The teacher—a young lady named Letitia Cheek—wrote to publicity commissioner George Warren about her problem.

Could Mr. Warren send her any literature on Canada? Mr. Warren certainly could.

He dispatched a heavy consignment of books and leaflets on Canada in general—and Vancouver Island in particular.

Delegates to the mammoth Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention in Victoria this month will eat and drink their way through more than $16,000 worth of dinners and receptions.

That is the total outlay in entertainment organized so far by local business firms and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

"We shall be entertaining many of the biggest industrialists in Canada," chamber manager Arnold Webb said today, "and it is right that we should do all possible to make them feel at home."

Victoria's convention picture is bright just now. Some eight conventions, bringing about 2,500 visiting delegates to the city, are slated for this month.

Victoria's tourist appeal is well known. Now the city is attracting careerists as well.

From Paisley, Scotland, Commander T. Hylton Brown of the Royal Navy writes asking if there are any good prospects here for technical and administrative personnel.

"I am considering applying for release from the navy in accordance with a recent government statement on reduction of the services," the commander wrote.

"I am told Victoria offers good prospects and ideal living conditions."

Nurse Lillian E. Mathieu of San Antonio, Texas, would like to take up nursing in Victoria.

She wrote to Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau asking if U.S. nurses are qualified to work in B.C. hospitals.

WURTELE DROPS 'BOTTLE' CASE

The broken bottle case is "as dead as a doornail" unless a charge is laid by teacher Pat Thomas against a youth who allegedly threatened his life May 31, Reeve A. C. Wurtele, chairman of Esquimalt police commission, said today.

The incident reportedly occurred at Esquimalt High School during graduation ceremonies. A 17-year-old ex-student held a broken bottle against his stomach, Mr. Thomas told police, and said "I'm going to kill you."

Provincial CD officers will meet local members in Nanaimo Nov. 9 and in Alberni Nov. 10.

In both cases, operational planning for doubling of hospital capacity and organization of full-scale welfare centres will be assessed.

In addition, assessment will be made of the welfare centre planning by the Sooke contingent at a date to be announced.

Plans were drawn up by local corps in a province-wide problem exercise earlier this year. Some 13 centres made plans for the hospital expansion and 15 for the welfare centre operation in their areas.

'Disaster' Study Forums Set for CD

Study forums to assess disaster plans worked out in annual problem exercises have been scheduled for three Vancouver Island Civil Defence corps.

Provincial CD officers will meet local members in Nanaimo Nov. 9 and in Alberni Nov. 10.

In both cases, operational planning for doubling of hospital capacity and organization of full-scale welfare centres will be assessed.

In addition, assessment will be made of the welfare centre planning by the Sooke contingent at a date to be announced.

B.C. Government To Aid Entry In Grey Cup Parade

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett has offered a contribution of up to $15,000 towards British Columbia's entry in Toronto's Grey Cup parade.

He told Mayor Fred Hume of Vancouver Monday that he will match dollar for dollar up to $15,000 anything the city puts in the fund.

A committee headed by Ald. Frank Baker is trying to raise just over $20,000 for a series of elaborate floats based in the B.C. centennial.

For Murderer

(From CP Dispatches)

PRINCE GEORGE — An RCMP constable was knocked down by a car while he patrolled a road block in a search for a Yukon murderer.

Constable Kenneth R. Morrison, 21, suffered bruises and lacerations. He is in good condition here.

A suspect in the murder has since been held for questioning in Regina.

Const. Morrison and another policeman were conducting a 24-hour road block seven miles north of here on the Hart highway in the search for a man who killed Bert Musatto, 39-year-old Whitehorse shoemaker.

As a long stream of vehicles waited to be checked, a car at the end of the line pulled out and began to pass. When Morrison signalled for it to stop the car struck him, throwing him to the pavement and pushing him several feet.

The car stopped 300 yards farther on and a woman driver was questioned and held for investigation.

METRO POLICING NEEDED

VANCOUVER — Metropolitan policing will have to be imposed on the Greater Vancouver area by the provincial government, chief constable George Archer said Monday.

Back at his desk after studying the Toronto metropolitan police setup, Chief Archer said metropolitan policing "positively" will come to this area.

"But I believe we will not have it in a voluntary way. It will have to be a policy laid down by the government. It is still quite a way off — unfortunately."

This is the EDSEL

"A remarkable new automobile joins the Ford family of fine cars"

There has never been a car like the Edsel. It is a car with originality written into every distinctive line. Behind it are all the resources, all the experience and engineering skill which have produced the Ford family of fine cars.

The Edsel puts the accent on style, the emphasis on engineering skill. Here are the remarkable results:

The Edsel is powered by the newest V-8 engines in the industry—the Edsel 400 and the Edsel 475. Their specifications: 400 and 475 pound-feet of torque; 303 and 345 horsepower; 361 and 410 cubic inches of displacement; 10.5 to 1 compression ratio. It is unlikely you have ever handled so much usable power.

The Edsel's big, safe brakes do not need periodic tightening. They adjust themselves automatically in the course of your day-to-day driving.

The Edsel shifts itself. Teletouch Drive puts the selector buttons where they belong—right in the centre of the steering wheel. Just touch lightly—Teletouch does the rest—smoothly, surely, electrically.

The Edsel's list of available new features is long. Examples: contour seats; a dial that lets you select temperature, quantity and direction of air with one twist of the wrist; a warning light that flashes when you exceed your pre-set speed limit; another that flashes when oil is one quart low; a release that enables you to open the trunk compartment from the driver's seat.

You will find a lot of things which are different—and better—in the Edsel.

In any Edsel you will have a matchless car. You can choose from 17 models: 2 four-door sedans, 4 two-door hardtops, 4 four-door hardtops, 2 convertibles, 5 station wagons. There are four elegant series: Ranger, Pacer, Corsair, Citation.

How much does an Edsel cost? The Ranger series is priced just above the low-priced field. And Edsel prices range up to just below the high-priced field, for the distinguished Citation series.

Public School Swimming Class To Set Record

A record enrollment of grade five pupils will tax facilities at Crystal Garden as school board swimming classes get under-way.

For several years district 61 school board has provided swim instruction to grade five pupils in two groups. The first takes classes in the fall, the second in the spring.

But when the classes began there were only 10 groups of swimmers. This year there will be 28 groups. Total of 2,000 youngsters will get the training during the 1957-58 school year.

First groups attended Monday. The instruction is part of the school curriculum and takes place in school hours at no cost to the pupils.

New Products Detailed For Industry

A detailed list of manufactured products imported into B.C. which the government thinks could be manufactured in the province was released today.

Trade Minister Bonner said the publication was designed and published as part of his department's policy of assisting businessmen interested in expanding domestic industry in B.C.

It has the somewhat cumbersome title of "A Listing of Items Which Would Bear Further Investigation as to Their Possibilities of Being Manufactured in British Columbia."

The list is confined to items imported through B.C. customs ports valued at $50,000 or over.

The imports are grouped in the following categories: producers' materials, manufacturers' materials, producers' equipment, fuel, electricity and lubricants, transport, auxiliary materials for commerce and industry and consumers' goods.

A complete description of the items is given, along with import duties and tariff item numbers and principal country of origin.

An appendix shows the principal trading agreements between Canada and other countries.

GORDON CAMERON AND MANDY... the inseparables

WELL-KNOWN DOG ABOUT TOWN DIES IN ACCIDENT

Lawyer's Constant Companion Had Host of Friends in City

By MONTE ROBERTS

One of the most prominent members of the Victoria canine colony was killed in a downtown street accident recently.

He was Commander Kilmonark, 13, a wire haired terrier better known to countless friends as "Mandy."

Mandy was the constant companion of city lawyer Gordon Cameron.

Everywhere Mr. Cameron went, Mandy was sure to be found. At home, in Mr. Cameron's Central Building offices, at the court house, in downtown department stores, the pair were inseparable.

Mandy came into Mr. Cameron's life as a present from his son, Donald, also a Victoria lawyer.

At that time the terrier was one year old, fluffy, white, and somewhat independent by nature. But, as some dogs do, he immediately adopted the senior Cameron, and staked him out as his very own man.

Only once did Mandy become lost, and that was at a very early age. He quickly learned the main streets and byways of Victoria, and it was his delight to trot along at Mr. Cameron's heels, his tiny legs flashing, while the boss went about his appointed rounds.

Mandy invariably checked into the office in the morning. Then, if nothing interesting appeared to be on the appointment book, he would wander off, wait for an elevator, and ride three floors down to street level.

Invariably he was back at the office by lunch time.

One of Mandy's favorite pastimes—when Mr. Cameron was occupied with dull legal business—was to wander through the main floor departments of Eaton's.

A kindly lady spotted the dog and, thinking he was lost, purchased a length of ribbon with which she rigged an impromptu leash. Then she marched him down to the police station.

The officer on duty took one look at the terrier and made a phone call. To Mr. Cameron's secretary he said: "Is your office dog missing? I think we have him here."

The secretary suggested: "Ask him if his name's Mandy."

The officer complied, and the dog bounced up and down, grinning.

"Seems to be Mandy all right. What will we do with him?"

"Just turn him out the door, he'll come back here," said the secretary.

And he did.

Among Mandy's familiar stamping grounds were the Legislative buildings—he was often an off-duty guest of the deputy minister of finance—the Imperial Bank, where he had the free use of the manager's plush rug as a resting place—the courthouse, where the judges welcomed him to their inner sanctums, and where he was as well-known as Silenus' friend, the seagull.

All in all, Mandy packed a lot of fun into his 13 years.

A traffic-wise dog, he watched his step on downtown streets, usually waited for a stream of two-legged pedestrians to run interference for him before crossing.

But last Thursday his luck ran out and, in a brush with an automobile, he was killed instantly.

Gordon Cameron will be by no means alone in mourning the passing of Commander Kilmonark—Mandy to his friends.

And he had no enemies.

ARTHUR CHARLTON... great walker

90 WEDNESDAY

Horse, Buggy Days Recalled By Old-Timer

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

A young man and a young city got together when Arthur Charlton came out to Victoria from his native England in 1887.

They've stayed together ever since and when Victoria wakes up Wednesday morning Mr. Charlton will be 90.

Ninety years old and still able to walk around the block before breakfast... happy to be alive and happy to welcome all the children and grandchildren who are coming to Victoria to celebrate with him.

Not that Mr. Charlton will celebrate in the liquid sense. He has never in his life taken alcohol and he's never smoked either.

NO KNOWN VICES

Just what his vices are no one seems to know.

"He's always enjoyed himself," says his eldest son, 64-year-old Herbert Charlton, puffing on a Big-Bowditch pipe.

But tobacco and alcohol never meant anything to him. He always seemed happy without them.

"His chief indulgence used to be walking. Why, when he was 20, he'd walk 16 or 17 miles on a Sunday. I reckon he's walked thousands of miles up and down this island."

Cheerful, white-haired Mr. Charlton still trots around the city every morning by himself, and as he puts it "the old place has grown up all around me. Look at all these motors and the flashing lights at the traffic stops."

HORSES THEN

"When I first came here as a kid of 20, the horse was the fastest thing on the road and everyone knew everyone else. Now there are new faces on the streets every day."

Mr. Charlton proudly displayed a birth certificate showing that he was born at Islington, North London.

His father was a nurseryman and young Arthur followed in his footsteps. At 12 years of age he became an apprentice gardener on the Duke of Wellington's estates at Foltham, Middlesex. And when the big families in Victoria started advertising for English gardeners, he decided to emigrate.

"Later, these same families showed a preference for Japanese gardeners," Mr. Charlton said, "and we white men began looking around for other occupations."

Mr. Charlton joined the Victoria post office and served 36 years. On his retirement in 1933 he was honored with the British Empire service medal.

Mrs. Charlton, who would have been 90 this year also, died 12 years ago. Since then Mr. Charlton has lived by himself in an apartment at 918 Johnson Street, which formerly was the parsonage of Metropolitan Church. He will be "at home" there to friends Wednesday between 2.30 and 5 p.m. and 7 and 9 p.m.

Mediation Asked In Electricians' Wage Disputes

Mediation by conciliation officers has been sought in two wage negotiations involving the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

B.C. Electric Company has applied for conciliation in negotiations with 100 men covered by Local 230 in Victoria and 250 men in Local 213, Vancouver.

The union seeks pay raises ranging from 40 per cent for journeymen to 15 per cent for laborers. Current journeymen's scale is $2.41½ an hour, under a two-year contract which expired Aug. 1.

The Victoria local has applied for a conciliation officer in a dispute with MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. covering 20 maintenance electricians at the Port Alberni pulp mill.

The union seeks a 30 per cent across-the-board wage increase, another paid statutory holiday to make a total of nine, and three weeks' holiday after five years' service.

Present scale for the journeymen is $2.29 an hour.

Cyclist Injured

Motorcycle rider Gordon Alberg, 15, 1516 Mount Douglas Road, was admitted at St. Joseph's Hospital with a leg injury following an accident in Saanich shortly before 9.30 p.m. Monday.

Teen-Agers Held In City's Jail

Detention Facilities Seriously Overtaxed

Inadequate juvenile detention facilities at Coldharbor home have placed a number of teen-aged youngsters in the city lockup.

Police Chief John Blackstock said today the home on Coldharbor Road is "packed out" with six juvenile offenders, all boys.

Three other boys and one girl are being held in the Victoria police station, segregated from adult prisoners.

CAPACITY OF 8

Coldharbor home, administered by the juvenile officers and council appointees from Victoria, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt, has a capacity of eight—six boys and two girls.

Although there are no girls presently in detention at the home, authorities hesitate to utilize girls' accommodation for boy detainees because the rooms are specially fitted for girls, a juvenile officer said.

The present situation has arisen before, the chief said, but placing juveniles in the lock-up is done only by order of the juvenile magistrate.

Any remedy of the problem depends upon the wishes of each municipal council involved in the home.

JOINT UNDERTAKING

Municipalities must, by law, provide a detention home, and theoretically each must have its own. However, "in the case of Greater Victoria, where juvenile officers and welfare services work closely, the outside municipalities have entered into an agreement with Victoria on joint use of Coldharbor home."

Just how long juveniles must be kept in the lockup depends on the disposition of each case before the juvenile judge.

Theoretically, if more juveniles are taken into custody as existing cases are disposed of, the situation could last indefinitely.

Only one of the juveniles at Coldharbor is a city case. The other five are from outside municipalities.

Picket Lines Pulled From High School

A deal was made today by 26 striking city glaziers and District 63 (Saanich) school board to clear the way for resumption of work on a $48,000 addition at Mount Newton High School in a race against the weather.

Picket lines by the glaziers were to be taken off today, said Don Bushell, business agent for Local 1163, Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America.

In return, the school board decided at a meeting Monday night to give an undertaking that no glazing would be done until the strike is settled, and then only by union men.

CAN GO AHEAD

Pulling of the picket lines will enable the contractor to go ahead with construction of the addition and installation of new heating and electrical connections.

The 268 students at the school had to combine classes and go without heat or electricity when the contractors' employees refused to cross the picket lines.

"We decided to pull off the picket lines so that the students can attend school in the normal way," Mr. Bushell said.

Meanwhile, the glaziers, in their seventh week of striking against three city glass firms, have decided to keep their picket lines off a downtown building until a court application is decided.

Huron & Erie Mortgage Corp. applied for an interim injunction against the picketing of its office building under construction at View and Broad. Work was halted when the contractor's employees refused to cross the lines.

3 City Youths Sentenced to Penitentiary

Three Victoria youths were sentenced in city police court today to penitentiary terms for breaking into a Menzies Street coffee shop recently.

James White, 18, 3028 Orillia, and Theodore Stevens, 18, no fixed address, were each given two years. Ronald Curran, 19, no fixed address, will serve 2½ years.

All were charged with breaking and entering with intent to steal.

The trio was arrested inside the Argosy Coffee Shop, 263 Menzies, after a cab driver saw them break in and called police.

"You've each started out life in a very bad way," Magistrate H. C. Hall told them.

"Each of you is on probation... the time for leniency has certainly gone by. But I will make a moderate sentence in hope that this will be a lesson to you."

Three Boys Held After Car Raids In Early Hours

An early-morning raid on parked automobiles resulted in the arrest this morning of three youthful cyclists.

In a foray that lasted from 11.45 p.m. Monday to shortly after 1 a.m. the trio are said to have stolen hubcaps and other small articles from three automobiles.

Saanich patrol constables soon afterwards stopped the three young bike-riders, two 17 and 15. Two hubcaps and a car ashtray were recovered.

With the juvenile detention home crowded two of the youths were released in custody of their parents. The third was taken to the Coldharbor Road home when his father refused to take him home.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL ROBERT BONNER... More Investment

Bonner Plans Europe Visit In Dual Role

Attorney-General Robert Bonner will fly to Europe at the end of this month for a three-week visit.

As Minister of Trade and Industrial Development he will be accompanied by a group of B.C. businessmen in an attempt to drum up more European investment for the province.

The group will visit Britain, France, West Germany and Austria.

As attorney-general, he will also make a study of Britain's probation system for juvenile delinquents, reported to be one of the most progressive anywhere.

The B.C. Youth Council recently asked Mr. Bonner to call a Royal Commission inquiry into the juvenile delinquency problem here.

He said today he has reached no decision on the request, and it is indicated he may be awaiting his inspection of the British system.

Appeal Court Flooded With 152 Cases

Thirty-nine lawyers—three of them women—crowded into the B.C. Appeal Court at Victoria courthouse today for the opening of the fall term.

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan and six other justices of the appeal court heard applications for the setting down of 90 criminal and 62 civil appeals for hearing in Victoria and Vancouver.

Because of the pressure of litigation on Appeal Court facilities, many of these appeals will have to be carried over into 1958.

Lack of space in the ancient courtroom made it necessary for a number of lawyers to occupy the seats normally reserved for spectators at the back of the court. And several had to stand.

Moving from left to right across the crowded room, each lawyer addressed the justices in turn requesting suitable dates and places for their own particular appeals.

Restrained laughter was heard when a lawyer announced that he proposed to take a little pressure off the court by seeking leave to "abandon" an appeal.

Chief Justice Sloan nodded and smiled faintly as he pencilled a line through the case referred to.

A court official pointed out that, whereas the court of appeal used to meet three times yearly in Victoria and Vancouver, the sittings are now almost continuous because of the abundance of litigation.

Tartan Case Could Be Bright Spot of Color on Campus

By PENNY SAVER

Fall is here and colleges and universities will soon be filling up with knowledge-hungry students.

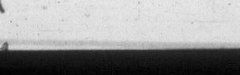

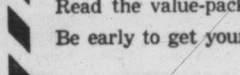

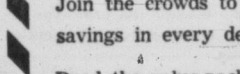

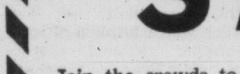

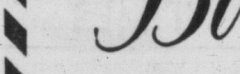

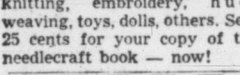

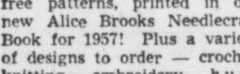

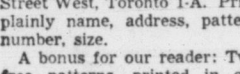

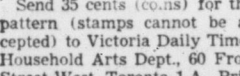

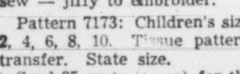

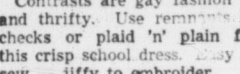

On my trip to town today, I found some gay tartan and canvas cases that would be very useful for toting books and lunches on the campus. They are waterproof and with a zipper and can be bought for a mere $2.95.

For the university man I discovered a razor that is designed for a tender skin but a tough beard. It could make a smart "going away to college" gift. It sets at $18.95.

The college miss will be sure to like the flannelette pyjamas I've found with pert "sissy" tops and frilly pantaloons. These are only $7.95.

Maybe the "dorm" will be drafty. In that case, a combination nightgown and jacket will be about right. In many dif-

Canada's Mining Boss Looks Attractive

TORONTO (NEA) — You would expect the president of Canada's organized prospectors and mining engineers to be a big, burly, bearded outdoorsman. Actually, Canada's head prospector is slim, five-foot Viola MacMillan, Toronto, who is as much at home in the northern bush as she is in a mink coat in the smartest fashion spots.

Mrs. MacMillan, 54, and her husband, George, have been prospecting since 1930 when she first visited the northern Ontario gold mining area on a summer vacation. The north country and its mineral possibilities immediately appealed to the stenographer-realtor-Christmas card saleswoman who had lived most of her life in Windsor.

TAKES OWN SAMPLES

Today Viola MacMillan is reaping the profits of her prospecting days. She has taken rock samples from one end of Canada to the other, and her staking trips have covered the area from the international boundary to the sub-Arctic.

This fall she will have a uranium mine in northern Saskatchewan come into production, while a number of oil properties in Alberta are being developed along with a lithium deposit in northern Manitoba.

A producing silver-lead-zinc mine is named after her in northern British Columbia, a property she has developed since 1945.

To be president of half a dozen mining companies and a director in almost as many, Mrs. MacMillan has had to show Canada's prospectors she could handle herself in the bush.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Gift for a doctor: During my husband's recent illness, our family physician gave his services "above and beyond the call of duty." Would it be all right for us to send him a gift to show our appreciation? And what should it be?

Louise Davis answers: When done in the true thoughtful spirit such as yours, gift giving can never be amiss. I am sure that your physician would have a delightful surprise.

A patient can be more than just "clinical" to a physician. Your doctor is a human. Louise Davis being and can enjoy human relations with his patients and their families. A gift from you and your husband would convince him of your gratitude and appreciation and, with it, he would be able to read your silent message. The gift to be selected would depend on his interests or hobbies. Perhaps you and your husband have been in contact with him enough now to make a fairly good guess as to what he might like. If he is a photographic fiend, send him some color films. If he likes music and has a record player, a symphonic album would be nice. How about a beautifully bound book, an enamel bowl, a basket of fruit. Whatever you get, be sure to send it to "Dr. and Mrs. X," assuming that your physician is married.

Miss Viola R. MacMillan is at present in Vancouver attending the Sixth Commonwealth Mining and Metallurgical Congress which has brought top mining experts from round the world together in Hotel Vancouver this week.

and take part in any staking rush.

There was the time in the '30s when she and husband George went into the Kirkland Lake area of northern Ontario on rumors of a gold strike. For more than 24 hours, without rest or time out for food, Viola and George staked claims in that area, took samples and, when they reached the recorder's office two days later, applied for 2,000 acres.

Then, staking claims in northwestern Quebec, she ran into the French-Canadian law that holds that wives cannot have property, that all property belongs to the husband. Both she and George were staking claims in a copper-gold region.

As happens in such staking rushes, mining syndicates send geologists and scouts out to buy into staked areas. Viola had a buyer for her shares, with cash in his pocket. But the Quebec mining recorder would not transfer her claim over to the buyer without her husband's signature. She had to go hunting for George, who was somewhere 20 miles away in the wilderness.

GOOD MIXER

This spring, for the 14th time, she was elected president of the Prospectors and Developers Association of Canada.

Whenever and wherever in Canada a new mine is officially opened, Viola MacMillan is there and prefers to sit in the crowd among the mining men who do the actual work of finding and developing a mine, instead of at the head table.

Not that she does not feel at home among the financiers. In the downtown Toronto office building, where mining companies have their headquarters, she rents the penthouse floor and has turned it into an apartment. There she and her husband entertain mining men and government officials, financiers and stock brokers, high above the Toronto skyline.

Her mining interests are so numerous and so varied that she literally commutes between her urban homes in Miami and Toronto — or between a bunkhouse and a tent somewhere in northern Canada.

Bride Wears Gown Of Chantilly Lace

Delicate Chantilly lace over satin created a wedding gown for Brenda Maureen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Antrobus, Sooke, when she became the bride of Olaf Jorgen Jacobson, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Jacobson, Langford, in St. John's Anglican Church.

The gown was styled with scalloped sweetheart neckline and full-length skirt, en train. A lace headdress held the bride's veil and she carried a bouquet of red rosebuds and stephanotis.

As matron of honor, Mrs. D. Armstrong, cousin of the bride, wore a gown of blue net over taffeta and carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli. Bridesmaids, Miss Karen Jacobson, sister of the groom, and Miss Lynda McKechnie were similarly gowned.

Little Miss Linda Antrobus, sister of the bride, flower girl, wore a pale pink nylon chiffon frock and carried a colonial bouquet.

Mr. Donald Jacobson was his younger brother's best man at the double-ring ceremony.

Ushers were Mr. Wayne Antrobus, brother of the bride, and Mr. Albert Jacobson, younger brother of the groom. Chez Marcel was decorated by Mrs. Jacobson for the honey-moon trip to California and Mexico. The newlyweds plan to live at Sooke.

Colfax Rebekah Lodge No. 1, Oddfellows Hall, tonight, 7.30 p.m.

A blue brocade sheath dress, with white feathered hat and corsage of red roses was worn with gladioli and sweet peas for the wedding reception. Pianist, Miss Vera C-tchard, provided entertainment.

Victoria Girl Realizes a Dream, To Enter Church Training School

Why would a girl with a good government position that in time would offer seniority and fine security, give it up to study as a full time worker in the church?

Ask brunette and vivacious Miss Joy-Ruddock who has decided to leave the hospital insurance office where she has been working for nearly eight years and go to Toronto to enter the Anglican Women's Training College.

Undoubtedly, Joy will tell you that she has been planning these three years of study for a long time. After many interviews, letters, and medical examinations her dream has come true.

But there is more to this dream than meets the eye.

Joy has been a devoted worker in St. John's Anglican Church ever since she was a child. She has taught Sunday school and assisted with Cub pack work.

Joy is also a member of the evening branch of the Woman's Auxiliary and the Anglican Young People's Association. But she says that she finds the youngsters, especially in the 12 and 13-year-old age group very challenging and stimulating, and it is in this age group that she has been most interested.

She tells an amusing story of a young lad who approached her at her first Cub meeting

Joy Ruddock looks ahead to a dedicated work and said, "You'll soon get fed up with us."

That did it, Joy has been a Cub "Okela" ever since!

At AWTC Joy will study New and Old Testament history, church history and leadership.

There are 22 fields that a woman can enter in church work, this earnest young woman explained. These include hospital, schools, missions, Sunday school by-post, youth work and many others.

She has not yet decided what branch she will select as a career. She says "with three years ahead and so much to learn, I can't possibly know what I am suited for."

At the college, the students must wear a navy blue dress and blazers with the AWTC crest. This pleases Joy because she thinks a set uniform is less distracting to the work "and much easier on the pocketbook."

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Ruddock, 1759 Hampshire Road, (Joy's parents), are, as she says with a smile, "very pleased."

Joy leaves Victoria this Wednesday for Toronto to start her new career and her friends in Victoria are wishing her "luck."

'Operation Education' Proving Successful

The department of education broke off a pretty big piece of cake when it inaugurated the new College of Education at Victoria College and University of British Columbia last year.

Now, after one complete year of operation, it is obvious that many changes must be made and will continue to be made in successive years.

But one thing is certain. "Operation Education" is proving successful.

Speaking to members of the Local Council of Women Monday, Prof. Henry Gilliland, director of teacher education at Victoria College, said:

"By stepping up the teacher training course from one year to four years for elementary school teachers and from a four years arts course plus one year normal school to a five-year education degree course for high school teachers, we are succeeding in drawing students of a higher calibre."

"The new prestige offered by the College of Education is also bringing greater numbers into the teaching profession, despite the increased difficulty of the courses."

It seems like a drastic change to make in just one year. And it is. But the department of education wisely did not close, all doors behind them before the new program is running smoothly.

Princess Alexandra Lodge No. 18, Daughters of England, Wednesday, 7.30 p.m., Orange Hall.

For example: A high school graduate can still take a one-year teacher training course which will enable him to teach elementary grades. However, there are certain restrictions. The student taking the one-year course is allowed to teach four years only while completing the second-year teacher training at summer school sessions.

Another allowance made by the department is the awarding of a permanent teacher's certificate after two years' training. This allows the girl who marries to continue her plans for a teaching career. However, she is encouraged to complete the four year course at summer school by the fact that her salary is increased when she receives her degree.

President of the Local Council, Mrs. E. Lillian Johns spoke on highlights of the national conference which she attended in Montreal.

It was announced that the semi-annual provincial meeting of the council will be held at Nanaimo Sept. 25 and 26. Delegates will be president, Mrs. Johns, Mrs. E. E. Livesey, Dr. Henrietta Anderson, Miss Marion Storey, Mrs. N. Smith and Mrs. B. Noels.

TWINS RECEIVE THEIR NAMES

Palou-Charlton Wedding In Fairfield United Church

In a double-ring ceremony held recently in Fairfield United Church, Gail Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Charlton, and John, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Palou of Edmonton, Alta., were married. Rev. T. R. Haythorne officiated.

The bride, wearing a ballerina length gown with bands of lace and net finished with small taffeta bows at the back and fashioned with a shirred lace bodice and short sleeve bolero walked up the aisle on her father's arm. Her circular veil was held by a coronet of orange blossoms that was worn by her mother. She carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Doreen Lindsay, wore a mauve nylon waltz-length gown. Bridesmaids, Miss Beverley Morrison and Miss Hilda Thorpe, were in similar frocks of net and lace. All carried colonial bouquets of yellow and white chrysanthemums.

Best man was Bud Rocheleau and ushering were Ken Scott and Ken Radway. Loughheed's banquet room was scene of a reception where the couple cut a three-tier wedding cake and F. E. Cross proposed a toast to the bride.

For her honeymoon, Mrs. Palou donned a dress of pink wool and white accessories complemented with a corsage of carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Palou will live in Victoria.

AT LANGFORD INSECTARY

Checkup on Pests Kept by Biologists

By FREEMAN KING

Their business is, literally, the bugs.

This is the work of David Evans and six assistants. They operate the Dominion Forest Biology Laboratory on Atkins Road, Langford. They study insects, the habits of insects, and how they can be controlled.

Where they work is called an "insectary." It's open from May to September or until the cold weather stops the inflow of specimens.

Insectaries operate in three main districts throughout B.C., and there are 18 field biology rangers under supervision of R. L. Tiddick.

'Messy Winters' Canada's Lot For 25 Years

TORONTO (CP)—A British scientist says North America and Western Europe may be slowly sliding into a 25-year period of poor weather.

For Canada this might mean little more than "messy winters."

Prof. Gordon Manley, of the University of London's geography department, said it appears that countries on both sides of the Atlantic have reached a peak in a 25-year climb toward better weather, with warmer, longer summers.

Now, he said, may be the time to cross the hump and start sliding downhill again.

Prof. Manley is among 1,200 delegates from 56 countries attending a two-week assembly of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics.

The 55-year-old British scientist has been engaged in studies of snowfall over the last 250 years in the United Kingdom. He said there appears to have been little climatic change on either side of the Atlantic in the last century, but such changes as can be detected indicate a definite connection between weather in North America and Western Europe.

He said it may not be too long before the weatherman can issue general reports for periods of perhaps five years.

That sort of thing could result in mass migration, of course—if, for instance, it looked as though drought years—which apparently come in clusters—were shaping up in the southwestern United States and fine, long summers were in store for Eastern Canada.

These rangers collect and send to the stations specimens for identification and examination.

With each specimen sent in goes a card, indicating where the bug was found, what type of foliage it was feeding on, the date it was caught, and other particulars.

At the laboratory the insect is identified and indexed as to its life habits, sex, development, cause of death, if it contains parasites and if so what they are, feeding habits and foliage type it lives on.

These card index files are sent to Dominion headquarters in Ottawa, and data is available to any biological station across the country that wants them.

An index is also kept on parasites. Biology men thus are able to keep a check on infestation throughout the country.

B.C. Forest Service rangers co-operate with the biology rangers in collecting and notifying them of any noted influx of insects.

IN ALL CONDITIONS

Special research work is carried out at the Atkins Road station on budworms by Don Edwards. Different specimens can be seen in cages; some hung in trees and others exposed to the elements in varying positions.

During early summer a war on the black-headed budworm larvae was carried out in northern Vancouver Island by aerial spraying.

R. L. Lejeune, the government's senior officer for B.C. in the biology division, said "as a result of the project, results indicate that the budworm population was adequately controlled."

The budworm had threatened three billion board feet of timber.

Biology experts are continually searching for a formula that will kill the budworm and not harm fish in streams and lakes due to aerial spraying.

In the insectary, thousands of specimens are fed regularly, each in its own container, labelled with name and other details.

The insects are housed in a room 18 by 40 feet. Every effort is made to make conditions and temperature close to the natural state for the bugs so a complete study can be made.

Last year, the lab handled 40,000 insects made up of 6,000 species.

If allowed to get out of hand, pests could destroy millions of dollars worth of timber, and this in turn would clog streams with debris and add to forest fire danger.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Marilyn Heh, aged 11, of Rochester, N.Y., for her question:

How Does Spanish Moss Grow?

Visitors to the Southland always become curious about the Spanish moss. It hangs from the trees in filmy festoons grey and greenish grey. Sometimes Spanish moss forms a curtain tunnel between an avenue of live oaks. Sometimes it clothes the tall cypresses in ragged tresses, trailing in the air. Since Spanish moss never grows upon the ground, we wonder if it feeds on the trees, if it is a parasite plant like the mistletoe.

Actually, Spanish moss is not a parasite. Nor is it moss nor is it Spanish. It is a member of the pineapple family and the pineapple lives on the ground and definitely supports itself. Spanish moss also supports itself, though it lives in the air. And as for being Spanish, the airy plant is a native of the semi-tropical Americas, which includes the West Indies.

Spanish moss is classed as an epiphyte. It borrows another plant merely to get a seat high in the air, and the sunshine. The little seed grows clamps to fix itself into the rough bark of trunk or branch. That is all it requires of the tree. It does not, like the parasite mistletoe, set down roots to feed upon the sap of the tree. Spanish moss has no roots.

When settled high on a sunny branch, the little seed begins to grow a hairy stem. The stem is but a thread, branching with fragile leaves. This is all there is to the plant and all of it is covered with scaly hairs. These fine hairs hold the secret of how the airy epiphyte makes its living.

In order to live, a plant must be able to create sugar. The ingredients for this recipe are air, water and sunshine. The plant must also contain the magic green liquid called chlorophyll. Spanish moss has chlorophyll in every trailing stem and fragile leaf. High up on the branches it also has plenty of air and sunshine. But normal plants get their water from the soil around their roots and Spanish moss has no roots.

This is where the scaly hairs come to the rescue. Each has a reservoir of moisture. From the rain and from the misty air the Spanish moss will gather droplets of water to store in these scaly hairs. The moisture is there, ready when the plant needs it for photosynthesis, the sunshine recipe which makes air, sunlight and water into plant sugar.

In this way the dainty plant manages to live without roots. The tree from which it dangles its airy tresses is merely a grandstand, a good place to stay in the sun and the air. Spanish moss cannot harm a tree by stealing its sap. But it may be come so thick that it shuts out air and sunlight from the tree. Though not harmful, it does no good to the tree.

People have found Spanish moss to be useful. Early travellers often made beds for themselves from the springy stuff. Nowadays, when there are enough proper beds to go around, we often use it to pack fragile objects for shipping.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to Eric Larsen, age 12, of San Diego, Calif., for his question:

Are all refrigerator gases poisonous?

If you have a brand new refrigerator, you may be quite sure that the gases used to cool it are as safe as the air in the kitchen. The same thing is true if your wonderful refrigerator is five, or even 10 years old. And it just may be perfectly safe if your machine is 20 years old.

Andy has checked this with the people who make Freon, the commercial mixture most used in modern cooling machines. Nowadays all the substances used for refrigeration are perfectly safe.

But—you just may happen to have a real old refrigerator. Andy's own cooler is at least 20 years old. And he would never think of prodding the works—just in case the cooling substance escaped. For the old-time refrigerators, or some of them, did use dangerous gases—and it is better to be safe than sorry.

Six Months Added To Prisoner's Term

William Maxwell Crozier, Bank of Commerce, Whitehorse, Y.T.

On July 29 a solicitor for Empire Printers, 620-A Broughton, told police a man answering Crozier's description ordered a quantity of calling cards, letter heads and envelopes under the name Dr. W. M. Crozier, consulting geologist, Whitehorse, Yukon Territories.

He proffered a cheque for $53 and later called around to obtain a few letter heads in advance because he said he wanted to write some letters. The remainder of the order was mailed to Whitehorse and came back stamped "not known."

Meanwhile, Crozier was arrested by Vancouver police. He pleaded guilty to the Victoria charge.

Victoria police held a warrant for Crozier since July 6, 1957, the day following complaint from merchant Tom Emes, 1122 Blanshard, that Crozier obtained a $145.75 hearing aid and $10 cash for a $155.75 cheque which proved worthless.

Mail Must Go Through Or Walked to Address

QUORN, England (AP) — A live pony was mailed from here to Leicester Monday.

Lacking a mail sack large enough to hold the unusual consignment, postmaster George Smith solved the problem by walking the pony the five miles to its destination. The trip took 1½ hours.

Postage, in the form of stamps stuck to the animal's flank, came to six shillings.

The pony, a four-year-old piebald named Tom, was purchased from a Quorn farmer by R. J. Roden, headmaster of the Maplewell Hall School in Leicester. Roden discovered it would cost him at least £2 for a truck to make delivery.

Then he recalled that an old post office regulation permits any object within reason to be mailed at a shilling (14 cents a mile) plus a one-shilling "exceptional express-delivery" charge.

So Roden bought the stamps, pasted them on the pony and handed the lead rein to Smith.

Little Tramp Dead, Says 'Panned' Chaplin

LONDON (Reuters)—Charlie Chaplin told reporters today he never again will revive the character of the little tramp with the floppy shoes, the derby hat and the cane.

But for a few moments Chaplin prouetted and shuffled across the floor of his suite at the Savoy Hotel in a request impersonation of the character that made him famous in the days of silent movies.

His act over, he remarked: "But it is not so funny now and besides I am getting a little top-heavy."

"There is such a thing as an anachronism," he said. "And a satire about the tramp today would be just that. The tramp was once a most cultured person, and that word doesn't particularly exist any more."

Chaplin is here for the premiere of his new film, A King in New York.

Donald Gomery of the Daily Express saw the picture at a private showing in Paris. He said of the film: "It presents a grossly distorted idea of American life."

"His spleen against America, since he left it five years ago, now over-weighs him into losing his sense of fun as he scurries round with a sledgehammer to crush a nut of 'persecution'."

"The whole propaganda theme of the film presents a grossly distorted idea of American life. It was, after all, a life that Chaplin himself for 40 years was able to endure pretty prosperously."

GIFT FROM U.S.

Child-Scaled Racing Car For Prince

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A child-sized racing car is being assembled as a gift to be flown to Prince Charles of England.

A spokesman for Pan American World Airways, which will deliver the tiny vehicle, gave this account Monday:

Charles (Chuck) Raabe, 8, of suburban South Gate, whose first name and age are the same as the prince's, is champion quarter-midget auto racer of the Downey chapter of the United Quarter Midget Racing Association. A racing driver since he was 3½, Chuck has collected more than 200 trophies.

A month ago Chuck read an item saying Prince Charles had been given an electric train which did not work. He decided that the prince might like to see what kids his age in America are doing.

GOT DAD'S OKAY

Chuck persuaded his father, Richard Raabe, who manufactures heavy machinery in nearby Downey, to build a custom quarter-midget racer for Prince Charles, also. The Downey chapter of the United Quarter Midget Racing Association voted the prince an honorary member and assigned him No. 1 for his car.

The little car is being completed at the elder Raabe's plant.

The car is being consigned to "His Royal Highness, Prince Charles," in care of the Queen's agent at London airport. The Pan-American spokesman said Chuck has communicated with English authorities and that they are "nonplused but intrigued."

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

AA (Oscar Class) A (Don't Miss) BB (Worthwhile) C (For Reading Days) D (Go to it) E (Go to it) F (Go to it)

(OSCAR CLASS) "A HATFUL OF RAIN" (Capitol). Unlike the central character in "Man With the Golden Arm" and "Monkey On My Back," 20th Century-Fox's addict Don ("Bus Stop") Murray isn't anything unusual, such as a card dealer or a prize fighter, but merely a wearily humdrum individual trying to sneak by life each day, like most of us.

For this reason, possibly, "Hatful of Rain" hits home harder than any one of Hollywood's previous "crusades" against the horrors of addiction. The opening setting appears ordinary enough. Murray and his wife Eva Marie Saint live in a whopping Manhattan housing project with Murray's easy-going brother Anthony Franciosa. Then the boys' blustery, well-meaning daddy Lloyd Nolan comes to town to visit them and it soon becomes clear that something deep, dark and lurking is loose high above Gotham.

Eva Marie doesn't understand it. She is pregnant and bitter that her husband has ignored her for three months at least. Alternately she wonders who the other woman is and throws herself at her brother-in-law. But Franciosa understands what is behind his brother's inattentiveness and moodiness. He has been spending his life's savings supplying Murray with the stuff, even, in the end, selling his beloved car to raise more money.

How Murray became an addict "Hatful" only hints. He's a Korea war veteran who was subjected to great wear and strain. The point is he is an addict, a man out of a job, an ordinary, quite nice human being in serious danger of alienating his wife and taking to violent crime to secure money for dope.

It is not a pretty picture this. Director Fred Zinnemann takes Michael Gazzo's play and, though compassionate, refuses to lead the climax to an ending of hope, only an ending that points up the indomitable spirit of the little man. No scene this year has packed such a welter of pathos, embarrassment and downright abjectness as when Murray finally breaks down to admit to his wife and his father that he is a "junkie." They are all good, the principals. But it is Miss Saint who again shows up as one of the most sincerely professional actresses on the world screen.

THE HIGH-LEVEL SQUINT

thinks he knows the forest — but has never met a tree

The SQUINT is an advertising executive who prefers to float above the rough-and-tumble of selling.

He thinks he gets the "big view" by closing his eyes to details... and thinks of the nation as a one-color map—where towns and people and needs are gratifyingly all alike.

And he advertises accordingly.

Fortunately the SQUINT is a rare creature. Most ad-men know that sales problems vary.

They know, for example that one town may buy twice as many girdles or puddings or toothpaste as another town even though incomes are equal—because regions are different, tastes are different, and people are different!

So most advertisers concentrate on areas that pay—instead of spending loftily in across-the-board campaigns.

Their "national" advertising starts at the local level—in newspapers!

All business is local... and so are all newspapers!

Death House Traffic
Booms in Singapore

SINGAPORE (AP)—Business booming in Singapore's Chinatown death houses.

About 70 persons a month came to each of the houses to let them die in tiny stalls, they rent for their last hours.

So they, or friends or relatives, pay the death house owners to let them die in tiny stalls they rent for this purpose.

A typical death house in the heart of Chinatown sits alongside stands selling vegetables, live fowl, textiles, nuts, bolts, red candles and coffins.

Wreaths line the pavement in front of the house and two dimly-lit white lanterns proclaim that a body is lying in state, that of Wong Ah Mei.

It is encased in a huge coffin surrounded by offerings of rice, fruits, chicken incense and two red candles.

Wong Ah Mei, like thousands of immigrants from China, was a housemaid or amah. She belonged to the elite of the amahs. Such women vow never to marry and devote themselves to their work. She died at 44.

Death houses here thrive on them because these women have no relatives. They never die in their place of employment if it can be avoided. They often rent a cubicle in a Chinese house to spend days when they have no work. But they never die there. The owners won't allow it, considering that bad luck.

When they feel death is near, they go or are taken to the death houses. There attendants give them a cot in a stall and for a fee feed and care for them until they die. The fee also includes a brass band for the funeral and a coffin which is made across the street.

Farmer Chooses Jail Over Fine In Market Case

LADYSMITH—George Wyndlow, Yellow Point district farmer, elected in police court to serve a two-week sentence in Oakalla Prison rather than pay fines imposed for offences under regulations of the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board.

He was convicted several weeks ago of unlawfully selling a regulated product, and of offering such a product for sale. He was fined $25 and $75.50 costs on one charge, and $50 and $5 cost on the other.

NO BOARD TAG

Mr. Wyndlow had been charged specifically with selling to a retailer potatoes which did not bear the board's tags or labels, and offering potatoes for sale to the same retailer at a later date.

Marketing board regulations did not prohibit him from selling culled potatoes to the retailer, Edmund Lorne Fuller of Langford, he said, and he got a greater financial return. Mr. Wyndlow said at his earlier trial that the board "was stealing money" from him, and that it had no intention of selling any of his potatoes this year.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Situated on the Shannon Farm, 11 miles north of Alberni, the site eventually would provide over 5,000 feet of air strip. It is a high gravel ridge running parallel to Stamp River.

AND THE WALLS CAME TUMBLING DOWN

Brutal Russ Oppression Bared at UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—United States delegates Henry Cabot Lodge today called on a special session of the United Nations General Assembly to act with all speed to end "the present grim course of events" in Communist-controlled Hungary.

"The people of Hungary are being shot and imprisoned and maltreated now," Lodge told the 81-member assembly. "Their sufferings were actual and acute and demand from one day to the next to be relieved."

Lodge spoke after the Hungarian delegation sought unsuccessfully to have the assembly drop the problem.

Australia's Keith C. O. Shann, reporter of the assembly's special committee of inquiry, opened the session by presenting the committee's 150,000-word report indicting the Soviet Union and the regime of Premier Janos Kadar for suppressing the uprising of last fall.

DOUBT GONE

Shann declared there can be no doubt that the Hungarian people want freedom and that they are being subjected to brutal repression.

Lodge said the concern of the U.S. is that the assembly take action.

"It is not enough to accept the truth if we are too tired or too preoccupied or too timid to act upon it," he declared. "We must indeed make further efforts."

Countries supporting the plan to condemn Russia's intervention hope to back up their move by having this parliamentary session of the world organization name an intermediary—a veteran Asian diplomat—who could visit Moscow and Budapest in an attempt to bring about a withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungarian soil.

But even delegates who predicted that the Western-sponsored resolution would win assembly approval concede that any action taken at this special session is not likely to improve the lot of the Hungarian people. Lodge, who brought about the special session and is generally regarded as chief author of the resolution, indicated that the main intention is "to keep the issue alive."

Talks to Set Reds' Future

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Poland's Wladyslaw Gomulka flew into Belgrade today for talks with President Tito expected to end the long-simmering dispute between the two communist leaders.

Gomulka, who along with Tito is the only Communist leader to have challenged the Kremlin and survived politically, headed a strong delegation that included Prime Minister Joseph Cyrankiewicz, Foreign Minister Dan Rapsacki and Agriculture Minister Edward Ochab.

NO REAL CRITICISM OF GOV'T-BENNETT

The provincial by-elections campaign was unique "because there was no real criticism of the government, just a cry for a stronger opposition," Premier Bennett said Tuesday.

The results of the by-elections also showed, he said, "that the people don't want a stronger opposition."

That Red coup in Syria'll prob'ly be known as th' Damascus steal.

If Arkansas wuz in Russia, wonder where the Governor w'd git buckin' Moscow.

SCHOOL DYNAMITED OVER RACIAL FIGHT

Battle over school segregation reached new heights today as newly-desegregated grammar school at Nashville, Tenn., was wrecked by dynamite blast. Entire east wall, examined by police, and four classrooms were demolished. One negro six-year-old student was admitted to school Monday. Below is scene at Birmingham, Ala., Monday where angry crowd of white men attacked negro pastor Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth, as he attempted to enroll several negro children in white school. Pastor is seen falling into street as he flees attackers surging after him. (AP Wirephoto.)

Bomb Blast Wrecks School Where Negro Admitted

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A massive dynamite blast early today wrecked an elementary school which Monday admitted one Negro as a first-grade student. Police later arrested five men for questioning.

Three of the men were seized when they refused to move from the vicinity of another grammar school which also admitted some Negro first-graders Monday.

Police said they found at the homes of the other two men 50 feet of wire of the type used with the explosives which wrecked Hattie Cotton Grammar School.

Police said one of the two "is a suspect we'd been looking for all night."

The first three arrested were charged with unlawful possession of weapons and ordered held under bonds of $25,000 each. Hearing for the five was set for 2 Wednesday.

Deputy Police Chief F. W.

Muller said that in the car of the first three men arrested he found a dynamite detonating device, a heavily-weighted billy club with "KKK" carved on the handle, two heavy wooden mallets and a length of wire of the type used in setting off explosives.

The car itself, Muller said, was plastered with numerous "KKK" signs.

The three men taken into custody by Muller were reported by him to have been seen Monday at all of the city grammar schools where there were violent anti-segregation demonstrations.

Muller added that the three also had been seen at rallies held here by John Kasper, New Jersey-born segregationist.

Police meanwhile set up lines a block from the schools in all directions to prevent a repetition of Monday's turbulent demonstration by pro-segregationists on the school grounds.

The wrecked $500,000 Hattie Cotton school was one of six in which white and Negro first-graders quietly attended classes Monday for the first time, to the accompaniment of turbulent.

Race Issue Injunction Asked

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A summons was served on Governor Orval Faubus today, ordering him to appear in Federal District Court Sept. 20.

Troops guarding the executive mansion opened the gates for a United States marshal who carried the order for Faubus and two subordinates to come to court for a hearing on the issuance of a preliminary injunction restraining him from further interference with enrollment of Negro students at Little Rock Central High School.

The marshal showed his credentials to an officer at the gate.

"Come in, sir," the officer said.

The marshal walked through the gate alone. As he walked along the curving gravel drive toward the mansion, Faubus came out, met him half way, and accepted the summons.

The order was issued by federal district Judge Ronald Davies less than an hour after Attorney General Herbert Brownell petitioned for it.

OFFICERS NAMED

Named with Faubus were Gen. Sherman T. Clinger and Lt. Col. Marion E. Johnson, head of the National Guard detachment at the school.

At the hearing, the judge may set a date for a hearing to make the injunction permanent.

The justice department cited six points on which it contended the governor and his military officers had prevented integration at strife-torn Central High in violation of U.S. court mandates. They were:

1. The governor's order to General Clinger a week ago ordering the guard officer to place the school off limits to Negro

Call to Arms Syria Cry In Face of U.S. 'Threat'

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The cabinet meeting was called on the heels of a Syrian charge that five U.S. warships steamed close to the Syrian coast Sunday.

Foreign minister Salah Bitar told Syrian newspapers the country "will not be terrorized by U.S. military demonstrations or any American war of nerves against us."

"Neither military demonstrations nor a U.S. war of nerves will... make us deviate from our Arab liberation policy," he said. "On the contrary, these acts will certainly bolster our determination to adhere to our policy and defend it."

In Moscow, the Soviet army newspaper Red Star said Turkish and Israeli forces are moving toward Syrian borders. The paper, quoting unidentified press reports, also said U.S. military units have landed in Turkey to support what it called aggressive moves against Syria.

Meanwhile, Jordan's foreign minister, Samir Rifal, told reporters in Amman that Israel is a far greater threat to Jordan than Syria.

Rifal made the statement in reply to a question whether Jordan is alarmed by recent developments in Syria.

NO JUSTIFICATION

The foreign minister said Jordan does not "feel justified at all in interfering in the internal affairs of Syria." But, he added, Jordan has been waging war against communism and "will continue to do so regardless of the direction from which it comes, internally or externally."

The charge that U.S. warships approached the Syrian coast was made by a Syrian army spokesman. He added that unidentified jet fighters flew over the Syrian port of Latakia Monday. He said Syria so far has made no protest to Washington.

In Washington, the U.S. Navy said none of its ships is operating close to the Syrian coast. A spokesman said the bulk of the U.S. 6th Fleet is in the Aegean Sea between Greece and Turkey—about 500 miles from the Syrian coast.

PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT IN SYRIA, DULLES HOPE

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles said today he believes the Syrian situation will be worked out peacefully although there are elements which could lead to serious trouble.

He told a press conference that the United States does not believe in peace at any price and under certain circumstances would act, but he did not define the circumstances or indicate the possibilities of action.

16 Asiatic Flu Cases First in Canada Port

HALIFAX (CP)—The first definite cases of Asian influenza among persons to arrive at a Canadian port were reported by a hospital here today.

Dr. Charles Sullivan, chief port medical officer, said 16 persons "definitely" suffering from Asian 'flu were taken from the Italian liner Vulcania to an immigration hospital and more might be found.

He said about 50 other Asian 'flu cases are aboard the liner bound for New York.

Dr. Sullivan said all the cases were diagnosed aboard the liner. Ship physician Dr. C. T. Donati said they are "very mild cases" and he treated them with anti-biotic drugs.

When the Vulcania reached here 12 persons with 'flu were found among the Canada-bound passengers. Four more were discovered during immigration medical examination.

Socreds, CCF Win By-Elections, B.C. Party Strengths Unchanged

VANCOUVER (CP)—Party strengths remained unchanged in British Columbia's Social Credit-dominated Legislature Monday after three provincial by-elections.

The government retained two seats, the CCF opposition one. Party standings remained the same as after last fall's provincial general election, a Social Credit landslide.

Dr. Gordon Gibson, 44, Social Credit, chiropractor and vice-president of the Newton Chamber of Commerce, won the Delta seat in the lower Fraser Valley dairymaking district of southwest B.C., left vacant by Thomas Irwin, former speaker of the legislature, who was a successful Social Credit candidate in last June's federal election.

Bill Speare, 42, Social Creditor of Quesnel, was successful in Cariboo.

Mr. Speare, a hospital administrator, succeeds to the seat made vacant last spring by the death of Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd. Cariboo is in the central interior and embraces a cattle-ranching area.

Mr. Speare, a hospital administrator, succeeds to the seat made vacant last spring by the death of Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd. Cariboo is in the central interior and embraces a cattle-ranching area.

Cedric Cox, 44, patternmaker, retained a CCF seat in Burnaby, a suburban municipality of Vancouver. Mr. Cox managed campaigns for veteran Socialist Ernie Winch, who held the seat from 1933 until his death last year.

Both Burnaby and Delta are two-member ridings. CCF also holds the other Burnaby seat; the other member for Delta is a Social Creditor.

LAING SILENT ON RETIREMENT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal leader Arthur Laing said his defeat Monday in the riding of suburban Burnaby is no indication that his party is in trouble.

"We're a two-party nation. The Liberal party will always be here," he said.

Asked if his defeat may bring his retirement from politics, he answered: "I can't say anything. That will of course be seriously considered. I'll have to discuss it with other members of our party."

The east end of the school was blown out, leaving a hole big enough to drive a truck through.

15 NEGROES

The six grammar schools admitted a total of 15 Negro first-graders in their first step toward court-ordered desegregation of the races. There are 3,500 pupils in the first grade in all of Nashville, with whites totalling 2,000 of this number. However, not all grammar schools were involved in the "first step" integration.

The dynamite blast came only a few hours after police had dispersed a violent crowd of about 500 segregationists who were smashing windows and windows of Negroes' automobiles with bricks and bottles as they passed Fehr school.

Fehr, which is located in a borderline Negro-white residential district, was the focal point of much of Monday's disorders. One woman was arrested twice.

Police Sgt. John Irwin said he found a detonating cap wire at the scene. He said the dynamite apparently had been exploded in the school's entrance hall. The concussion ripped through the building, blasting every window from the one-story structure.

Nashville is the largest city south of Louisville, Ky., to mix the races and the second state-supported secondary school system in Tennessee to begin desegregation.

ATTACKED

In the other integration developments Monday, Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth, a pro-integration leader at Birmingham, Ala., was attacked by a group of white men when he arrived at a school to help enroll his two daughters and three other negro children.

A policeman who went to the negro's aid also was struck and one of Shuttlesworth's children received a leg injury. Three white men were arrested.

At Dallas, Tex., a federal judge issued an order for integration to begin in the schools at mid-term, Feb. 3. Judge William H. Atwell, who twice before had granted the Dallas school board delays in carrying out integration and was overruled both times by the circuit court of appeals, issued the new order.

School integration for 110,000 pupils of Washington, D.C., schools began with a minimum of confusion. And at New York city, superintendent William Jansen of the largest school system in the U.S. maintained his stand that the integration program must not sacrifice the "neighborhood school concept." A record 1,300,000 children reported for classes in the city.

Women, Police in Clash Over Sex-Slaying Suspect

CROYDON, Eng. (Reuters)

Police pulled a fast one on a mob of howling, lynch-minded women here today to protect a prisoner charged with the sex-slaying of a four-year-old girl.

A crowd of 200 enraged females fought police outside the courthouse in this south London suburb trying to get at factory worker Derick Ed-wardson, 31, after he was formally charged with the murder of Edwina Taylor.

Shouting "let's get him out" and "turn it over," the women stormed a Black Maria in which they believed Edwardson was huddled under a rug between two policemen.

Two women tried to wrench open the back doors of the truck as it moved through the crowd. It drove off and the mob dispersed.

Two-and-a-half hours later another Maria pulled away, watched by a handful of idlers. Police revealed Ed-wardson was in that truck.

Court spectators jeered and booed when he was led out of court earlier. Edwardson, who gave himself up Monday night, was remanded in custody for seven days.

The child's body was found in a pile of coal in the basement of the building in which Ed-wardson lived.

Edwardson was granted free legal aid. He was brought into court through an underground tunnel to avoid the angry crowds outside. Police searched those entering court for cameras.

Police guarded all entrances to the court in this town on London's southern fringe. Thirty plainclothes police cadets mingled with the public in the gallery.

WELL-KNOWN DOG ABOUT TOWN DIES IN ACCIDENT

Lawyer's Constant Companion Had Host of Friends in City

By MONTH ROBERTS

One of the most prominent members of the Victoria canine colony was killed in a downtown street accident recently.

He was Commander Kilmonark, 13, a wire haired terrier better known to countless friends as "Mandy."

Mandy was the constant companion of city lawyer Gordon Cameron.

Everywhere Mr. Cameron went, Mandy was sure to be found. At home, in Mr. Cameron's Central Building offices, at the court house, in downtown department stores, the pair were inseparable.

Mandy came into Mr. Cameron's life as a present from his son, Donald, also a Victoria lawyer. At that time the terrier was one year old, fluffy, white, and somewhat independent by nature. But, as some dogs do, he immediately adopted the senior Cameron, and staked him out as his very own man.

Only once did Mandy become lost, and that was at a very early age. He quickly learned the main streets and byways of Victoria, and it was his delight to trot along at Mr. Cameron's heels, his tiny legs flashing, while the boss went about his appointed rounds.

Mandy invariably checked into the office in the morning. Then, if nothing interesting appeared to be on the appointment book, he would wander off, wait for an elevator, and ride three floors down to street level.

Invariably he was back at the office by lunch time.

One of Mandy's favorite pastimes—when Mr. Cameron was occupied with dull legal business—was to wander through the main floor departments of Eaton's.

A kindly lady spotted the dog and, thinking he was lost, purchased a length of ribbon with which she rigged an impromptu leash. Then she marched him down to the police station.

The officer on duty took one look at the terrier and made a phone call. To Mr. Cameron's secretary he said: "Is your office dog missing? I think we have him here."

The secretary suggested: "Ask him if his name's Mandy."

The officer complied, and the dog bounced up and down, grinning.

"Seems to be Mandy all right. What will we do with him?"

"Just turn him out the door, he'll come back here," said the secretary.

And he did.

Among Mandy's familiar stamping grounds were the Legislative buildings—he was often an office guest of the deputy minister of finance—the Imperial Bank, where he had the free use of the manager's plush rug as a resting place—the courthouse, where the judges welcomed him to their inner sanctums, and where he was as well-known as Silenus' friend, the seagull.

All in all, Mandy packed a lot of fun into his 13 years.

A traffic-wise dog, he watched his step on downtown streets, usually waited for a stream of two-legged pedestrians to run interference for him before crossing.

But last Thursday his luck ran out, and in a brush with an automobile, he was killed instantly.

Gordon Cameron will be by no means alone in mourning the passing of Commander Kilmonark—Mandy to his friends.

And he had no enemies.

ARTHUR CHARLTON
... great walker

90 WEDNESDAY

Horse, Buggy Days Recalled By Old-Timer

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

A young man and a young city got together when Arthur Charlton came out to Victoria from his native England in 1887.

They've stayed together ever since and when Victoria wakes up Wednesday morning Mr. Charlton will be 90.

Ninety years old and still able to walk around the block before breakfast... happy to be alive and happy to welcome all the children and grandchildren who are coming to Victoria to celebrate with him.

Not that Mr. Charlton will celebrate in the liquid sense. He has never in his life taken alcohol and he's never smoked either.

NO KNOWN VICES

Just what his vices are no one seems to know.

"He's always enjoyed himself," says his eldest son, 64-year-old Herbert Charlton, puffing on a big-bowled pipe.

"But tobacco and alcohol never meant anything to him. He always seemed happy without them."

"His chief indulgence used to be walking. Why, when he was close to 80 I've known him walk 16 or 17 miles on a Sunday. I reckon he's walked thousands of miles up and down this island."

Cheerful, white-haired Mr. Charlton still trots around the city every morning by himself, and as he puts it "the old place has grown up all around me. Look at all these motors and the flashing lights at the traffic stops."

HORSES THEN

"When I first came here as a lad of 20, the horse was the fastest thing on the road and everyone knew everyone else. Now there are new faces on the streets every day."

Mr. Charlton proudly displayed a birth certificate showing that he was born at Islington, North London.

His father was nurseryman and young Arthur followed in his footsteps. At 12 years of age he became an apprentice gardener on the Duke of Wellington's estates at Feltham, Middlesex. And when the big families in Victoria started advertising for English gardeners, he decided to emigrate.

"Later these same families showed a preference for Japanese gardeners," Mr. Charlton said, "and we white men began looking around for other occupations."

Mr. Charlton joined the Victoria post office and served 36 years. On his retirement in 1933 he was honored with the British Empire service medal.

Mrs. Charlton, who would have been 90 this year also, died 12 years ago. Since then Mr. Charlton has lived by himself in an apartment at 916 Johnson Street, which formerly was the parsonage of Metropolitan Church. He will be "at home" there to friends Wednesday between 2:30 and 5 p.m. and 7 and 9 p.m.

The union seeks pay raises ranging from 40 per cent for journeymen to 15 per cent for laborers. Current journeymen's scale is $2.41 an hour, under a two-year contract which expired Aug. 1.

The Victoria local has applied for a conciliation officer in a dispute with MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. covering 20 maintenance electricians at the Port Alberni pulp mill.

The union seeks a 30 per cent across-the-board wage increase, another paid statutory holiday to make a total of nine, and three weeks' holiday after five years' service.

Present scale for the journeymen is $2.29 an hour.

Teen-Agers Held In City's Jail

Detention Facilities Seriously Overtaxed

Inadequate juvenile detention facilities at Coldharbour home have placed a number of teen-aged youngsters in the city lockup.

Police Chief John Blackstock said today the home on Coldharbour Road is "packed out" with six juvenile offenders, all boys.

Three other boys and one girl are being held in the Victoria police station, segregated from adult prisoners.

CAPACITY OF 8

Coldharbour home, administered by the juvenile officers and council appointees from Victoria, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt, has a capacity of eight—six boys and two girls.

Although there are no girls presently in detention at the home, authorities hesitate to utilize girls' accommodation for boy detainees because the rooms are specially fitted for girls, a juvenile officer said.

The present situation has arisen before, the chief said, but placing juveniles in the lock-up is done only by order of the juvenile magistrate.

Any remedy of the problem depends upon the wishes of each municipal council involved in the home.

Municipalities must, by law, provide a detention home, and theoretically each must have its own. However, in the case of Greater Victoria, where juvenile officers and welfare services work closely, the outside municipalities have entered into an agreement with Victoria on joint use of Coldharbour home.

Just how long juveniles must be kept in the lockup depends on the disposition of each case before the juvenile judge.

Theoretically, if more juveniles are taken into custody as existing cases are disposed of, the situation could last indefinitely.

Only one of the juveniles at Coldharbour is a city case. The other five are from outside municipalities.

3 City Youths Sentenced to Penitentiary

Three Victoria youths were sentenced in city police court today to penitentiary terms for breaking into a Menzies Street coffee shop recently.

James White, 18, 3028 Orillia, and Theodore Stevens, 18, no fixed address, were each given two years. Ronald Curran, 19, no fixed address, will serve 2½ years.

All were charged with breaking and entering with intent to steal.

The trio was arrested inside the Argosy Coffee Shop, 263 Menzies, after a cab driver saw them break in and called police.

"You've each started out life in a very bad way," Magistrate H. C. Hall told them.

"Each of you is on probation... the time for leniency has certainly gone by. But I will make a moderate sentence in hope that this will be a lesson to you."

Three Boys Held After Car Raids In Early Hours

An early-morning raid on parked automobiles resulted in the arrest this morning of three youthful cyclists.

In a foray that lasted from 11:45 p.m. Monday to shortly after 1 a.m. the trio are said to have stolen hubcaps and other small articles from three automobiles.

Saanich patrol constables soon afterwards stopped the three young bike-riders, two 17 and 15. Two hubcaps and a car ashtray were recovered.

With the juvenile detention home crowded two of the youths were released in custody of their parents. The third was taken to the Coldharbour Road home when his father refused to take him home.

Bonner Plans Europe Visit In Dual Role

Attorney-General Robert Bonner will fly to Europe at the end of this month for a three-week visit.

As Minister of Trade and Industrial Development he will be accompanied by a group of B.C. businessmen in an attempt to drum up more European investment for the province.

The group will visit Britain, France, West Germany and Austria.

As attorney-general, he will also make a study of Britain's probation system for juvenile delinquents, reported to be one of the most progressive anywhere.

The B.C. Youth Council recently asked Mr. Bonner to call a Royal Commission inquiry into the juvenile delinquency problem here.

He said today he has reached no decision on the request, and it is indicated he may be awaiting his inspection of the British system.

Appeal Court Flooded With 152 Cases

Thirty-nine lawyers—three of them women—crowded into the B.C. Appeal Court at Victoria courthouse today for the opening of the fall term.

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan and six other justices of the appeal court heard applications for the setting down of 90 criminal and 62 civil appeals for hearing in Victoria and Vancouver.

Because of the pressure of litigation on Appeal Court facilities, many of these appeals will have to be carried over into 1958.

Lack of space in the ancient courtroom made it necessary for a number of lawyers to occupy the seats normally reserved for spectators at the back of the court. And several had to stand.

Restrained laughter was heard when a lawyer announced that he proposed to take a little pressure off the court by seeking leave to "abandon" the case referred to.

Chief Justice Sloan nodded and smiled faintly as he pencilled a line through the case referred to.

A court official pointed out that, whereas the court of appeal used to meet three times yearly in Victoria and Vancouver, the sittings are now almost continuous because of the abundance of litigation.

VICTORIA POLITICAL LANDMARKS

Well-Known Mayhew, Pattullo Homes Change Hands

Two of Victoria's most gracious homes—and landmarks in the political life here—have changed hands.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Mayhew have sold their home at 3125 Beach Drive to Mrs. Sybil Martin, formerly of Winnipeg and recently of 516 Newport Avenue.

Mrs. L. Pattullo, widow of former premier T. D. Pattullo, has sold her home at 951 Beach Drive to P. M. Townsend for conversion into a duplex.

Standing alone at the eastern side of Victoria Golf Club course, at practically the southern extremity of Vancouver Island, the house dominated that portion of Beach Drive. Mr. Townsend is occupying one of the suites, and will rent the other, of about eight rooms, when the conversion is finished.

It was built in 1927 for a man who was transferred before he could occupy it, and Mr. Pattullo and his family were the only people to live there until the recent sale.

Oddly enough, Mr. Mayhew's home could have been a premier's home also.

"We offered it to Premier Bennett for 50 cents on the dollar as a permanent home for the premier of B.C.," Mr. Mayhew said, "but nothing came of it. That would have meant perpetuation of the grounds for years to come, and we would have liked to see it done."

The Mayhews have been in the big home for 17 years. They are building nearby on Rutland Road, but like all persons making the change from a large house to a smaller one, they find the move a problem.

"We have burned hundreds of things," said the former Victoria M.P., federal fisheries minister and Canadian ambassador to Japan. "Pictures, for instance, collected for over 50 years. We shut our eyes and put them on the fire."

They are moving because the house is large for one couple; they do not plan to entertain so heavily in the future, and Mr. Mayhew said with a grin, "the stairs here keep getting longer and steeper."

They have been ready to sell for some time, but held off until they found a buyer who would keep the home up to its present standard.

"We have tried to maintain it properly, and I think we have been successful," he said. "The new owner, Mrs. Sybil Martin, not only will keep it up but will improve it."

The house was built in 1931 by Joseph Sayward, founder of Colwood Golf Club, as a wedding present for his daughter, Margaret. Later it was bought by J. A. Wattie and Mr. and Mrs. Mayhew bought it from the Wattie estate in 1940. They will move about Sept. 22 or 23, and Mrs. Martin will move in Oct. 12.

BUSY HOME

It has always been a busy house, having been loaned for teas and garden parties both in war and peacetime, and has seen its share of "V.I.P.s."

"Mackenzie King, Louis St. Laurent, just about all the federal cabinet ministers, the former prime minister of Pakistan, and a good many others have been entertained here," Mr. Mayhew said. "Since we returned from Japan we have had many people as guests that we met in the Orient."

"It is a good house, and just oozes with the substantiality of the Saywards," Mr. Mayhew said.

Although their new house is smaller, and entertaining will be on a smaller scale, he and Mrs. Mayhew will still be busy.

"The Japanese have a proverb that says you can't stand still, because if you do you will fall down," Mr. Mayhew said. "We certainly don't intend to stand still."

Tartan Case Could Be Bright Spot of Color on Campus

By PENNY SAVER

Fall is here and colleges and universities will soon be filling up with knowledge-hungry students.

On my trip to town today, I found some gay tartan and canvas cases that would be very useful for toting books and lunches on the campus. They are waterproof and with a zipper and can be bought for a mere $2.95.

For the university man I discovered a razor that is designed for a tender skin but a tough beard. It could make a smart "going away to college" gift. It sells at $18.95.

The college miss will be sure to like the flannelette pyjamas I've found with per "sissy" tops and frilly pantaloons. These are only $7.95.

Maybe the "dorm" will be drafty. In that case, a combination nightgown and jacket will be about right. In many dif-

Canada's Mining Boss Looks Attractive

TORONTO (NEA) — You would expect the president of Canada's organized prospectors, and mining engineers to be a big, burly, bearded outdoorsman. Actually, Canada's head prospector is slim, five-foot Viola MacMillan, Toronto, who is as much at home in the northern bush as she is in a mink coat in the smartest fashion spots.

Mrs. MacMillan, 54, and her husband, George, have been prospecting since 1930 when she first visited the northern Ontario gold mining area on a summer vacation. The north country and its mineral possibilities immediately appealed to the stenographer-realtor-Christmas card saleswoman who had lived most of her life in Windsor.

TAKES OWN SAMPLES

Today Viola MacMillan is reaping the profits of her prospecting days. She has taken rock samples from one end of Canada to the other, and her staking trips have covered the area from the international boundary to the sub-Arctic.

This fall she will have a uranium mine in northern Saskatchewan come into production, while a number of oil properties in Alberta are being developed along with a lithium deposit in northern Manitoba.

A producing silver-lead-zinc mine is named after her in northern British Columbia, a property she has developed since 1945.

To be president of half a dozen mining companies and a director in almost as many, Mrs. MacMillan has had to show Canada's prospectors she could handle herself in the bush.

Miss Viola R. MacMillan is at present in Vancouver attending the Sixth Commonwealth Mining and Metallurgical Congress which has brought top mining experts from round the world together in Hotel Vancouver this week.

and take part in any staking rush.

There was the time in the '30s when she and husband George went into the Kirkland Lake area of northern Ontario on rumors of a gold strike. For more than 24 hours, without rest or time out for food, Viola and George staked claims in that area, took samples and, when they reached the recorder's office two days later, applied for 2,000 acres.

Then, staking claims in northwestern Quebec, she ran into the French-Canadian law that holds that wives cannot have property, that all property belongs to the husband. Both she and George were staking claims in a copper-gold region.

As happens in such staking rushes, mining syndicates send geologists and scouts out to buy 'nto staked areas. Viola had a buyer for her shares, with cash in his pocket. But the Quebec mining recorder would not transfer her claim over to the buyer without her husband's signature. She had to go hunting for George, who was somewhere 20 miles away in the wilderness.

GOOD MIXER

This spring, for the 14th time, she was elected president of the Prospectors and Developers Association of Canada.

Whenever and wherever in Canada a new mine is officially opened, Viola MacMillan is there and prefers to sit in the crowd among the mining men who do the actual work of finding and developing a mine, instead of at the head table.

Not that she does not feel at home among the financiers. In the downtown Toronto office building, where mining companies have their headquarters, she rents the penthouse floor and has turned it into an apartment. There she and her husband entertain mining men and government officials, financiers and stock brokers, high above the Toronto skyline.

Her mining interests are so numerous and so varied that she literally commutes between her urban homes in Miami and Toronto — or between a bunkhouse and a tent somewhere in northern Canada.

Bride Wears Gown Of Chantilly Lace

Delicate Chantilly lace over satin created a wedding gown for Brenda Maureen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Antrobus, Sooke, when she became the bride of Olaf Jorgen Jacobson, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Jacobson, Langford, in St. John's Anglican Church.

The gown was styled with scalloped sweetheart neckline and full-length skirt, en train. A lace headdress held the bride's veil and she carried a bouquet of red rosebuds and stephanotis.

As matron of honor, Mrs. D. Armstrong, cousin of the bride, wore a gown of blue net over taffeta and carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli. Bridesmaids, Miss Karen Jacobson, sister of the groom, and Miss Lynda McKechnie were similarly gowned.

Little Miss Linda Antrobus, sister of the bride, flower girl, wore a pale pink nylon chiffon frock and carried a colonial bouquet.

Mr. Donald Jacobson was his younger brother's best man at the double-ring ceremony.

Ushers were Mr. Wayne Antrobus, brother of the bride, and Mr. Albert Jacobson, younger brother of the groom.

Chez Marcel was decorated with gladioli and sweet peas for the wedding reception. Pianist, Miss Vera Citchard, provided entertainment.

A blue brocade sheath dress, with white feathered hat and corsage of red roses was worn by Mrs. Jacobson for the honeymoon trip to California and Mexico. The newlyweds plan to live at Sooke.

BLAST ROCKS SCHOOL

Of Hungary
U.S. DemandBrutal Russian Oppression Bared

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—United States delegates Henry Cabot Lodge today called on a special session of the United Nations General Assembly to act with all speed to end "the present grim course of events" in Communist-controlled Hungary.

"The people of Hungary are being shot and imprisoned and maltreated now," Lodge told the 81-member assembly. "Their sufferings were actual and acute and demand from one day to the next to be relieved."

Lodge spoke after the Hungarian delegation sought unsuccessfully to have the assembly drop the problem.

Australia's Keith C. O. Shann, reporter of the assembly's special committee of inquiry, opened the session by presenting the committee's 150,000-word report indicting the Soviet Union and the regime of Premier Janos Kadar for suppressing the uprising of last fall.

DOUBT GONE

Shann declared there can be no doubt that the Hungarian people want freedom and that they are being subjected to brutal repression.

Lodge said the concern of the U.S. is that the assembly take action.

"It is not enough to accept the truth if we are too tired or too preoccupied or too timid to act upon it," he declared. "We must indeed make further efforts."

Countries supporting the plan to condemn Russia's intervention hope to back up their move by having this parliamentary session of the world organization name an intermediary—who could visit Moscow and Budapest in an attempt to bring about a withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungarian soil.

But even delegates who predicted that the Western-sponsored resolution would win assembly approval conceded that any action taken at this special session is not likely to improve the lot of the Hungarian people.

Lodge, who brought about the special session and is generally regarded as chief author of the resolution, indicated that the main intention is "to keep the issue alive."

Peaceful Atom
Use Harmless
To Population

NEW YORK (AP)—A member of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said today nuclear reactors "cannot under any circumstances produce a bomb-like explosion."

In a speech prepared for the conference of U.S. mayors, Harold S. Vance offered "positive assurance that the millions of people who live in the cities of America... are not going to be harmed or endangered in any way by the employment of this new wonderful source of energy in its peaceful applications."

Official sources said the purpose of the cabinet session was to study what they described as "U.S. anti-Syrian provocations" and to decide Syria's course of action against it.

The cabinet meeting was called on the heels of a Syrian charge that five U.S. warships steamed close to the Syrian coast Sunday.

Foreign minister Salah Bitar told Syrian newspapers this country "will not be terrorized by U.S. military demonstrations or any American war of nerves against us."

"Neither military demonstrations nor a U.S. war of nerves will... make us deviate from our Arab liberation policy," he said. "On the contrary, these acts will certainly bolster our determination to adhere to our policy and defend it."

In Moscow, the Soviet army newspaper Red Star said Turkey's stance was "unacceptable."

New Violence Marks
Segregation Issue

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A massive dynamite blast early today wrecked an elementary school which Monday admitted one Negro as a first-grade student. Police later arrested five men for questioning.

Also arrested was John Kasper, Jersey-born segregationist, when he appeared in city court in connection with bail for the men in custody.

He was led from the courtroom by assistant police chief F. W. Muller. The nature of the charges against him was not immediately disclosed.

Three of the men were seized when they refused to move from the vicinity of another grammar school which also admitted some Negro first-graders Monday.

Police said they found at the homes of the other two men 50 feet of wire of the type used with the explosives which wrecked Hattie Cotton Grammar School.

Police said one of the two "is a suspect we'd been looking for all night."

The first three arrested were charged with unlawful possession and weapons and ordered held under bonds of $25,000 each.

Deputy Police Chief F. W. Muller said that in the car of the first three men arrested he found a dynamite detonating device, a heavily-weighted billy club with "KKK" carved on the handle, two heavy wooden mallets and a length of wire of the type used in setting off explosives.

DEMONSTRATIONS

The car itself, Muller said, was plastered with numerous "KKK" signs.

The three men taken into custody by Muller were reported by him to have been seen Monday at all of the city grammar schools where there were violent anti-segregation demonstrations.

Muller added that the three also had been seen at rallies held here by John Kasper. Police meanwhile set up lines a block from the schools in all directions to prevent a repetition of Monday's turbulent demonstration by pro-segregationists on the school grounds.

The wrecked $500,000 Hattie Cotton school was one of six in which white and Negro first-graders quietly attended classes Monday for the first time, to the accompaniment of turbulent demonstrations.

Faubus Ordered To Court

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A summons was served on Governor Orval Faubus today, ordering him to appear in Federal District Court Sept. 20.

Troops guarding the executive mansion opened the gates for a United States marshal who carried the order for Faubus and two subordinates to come to court for a hearing on the issuance of a preliminary injunction restraining him from further interference with enrollment of Negro students at Little Rock Central High School.

The marshal showed his credentials to an officer at the gate.

"Come in, sir," the officer said. The marshal walked through the gate alone. As he walked along the curving gravel drive toward the mansion, Faubus came out, met him half way, and accepted the summons.

The order was issued by federal district Judge Ronald Davies less than an hour after Attorney-General Herbert Brownell petitioned for it.

OFFICERS NAMED

Named with Faubus were Gen. Sherman T. Clinger and Lt. Col. Marion E. Johnson, head of the National Guard detachment at the school.

At the hearing, the judge may set a date for a hearing to make the injunction permanent.

The justice department cited six points on which it contended the governor and his military officers had prevented integration at strife-torn Central High in violation of U.S. court mandates. They were:

1. The governor's order to General Clinger a week ago ordering the guard officer to place the school off limits to Negro students.

Socreds, CCF Win By-Elections,
B.C. Party Strengths Unchanged

Party strengths remained unchanged in British Columbia's Social Credit-dominated Legislature Monday after three provincial by-elections.

The government retained two seats, the CCF opposition one. Party standings remained the same as after last fall's provincial general election, a Social Credit landslide.

Social Credit — 39
CCF — 10
Liberal — 2
Independent — 1
Total — 52

Voting was lighter than in the general election. Majorities of winning candidates were less substantial than a year ago. Successful candidates in the by-elections were:

Dr. Gordon Gibson, 44, Social Credit, chiropractor and vice-president of the Newton Chamber of Commerce. He won the Delta seat in the lower Fraser Valley dairyming district of southwest B.C., left vacant by Thomas Irwin, former speaker of the legislature, who was a successful Social Credit candidate in last June's federal election.

Bill Speare, 42, Social Creditor of Quesnel, was successful in Cariboo.

Mr. Speare, a hospital administrator, succeeds to the seat made vacant last spring by the death of Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd. Cariboo is in the central interior and embraces a cattle-ranching area.

Cedric Cox, 44, patternmaker, retained a CCF seat in Burnaby, a suburban municipality of Vancouver. Mr. Cox managed campaigns for veteran Socialist Ernie Winch, who held the seat from 1933 until his death last year.

Both Burnaby and Delta are two-member ridings. CCF also holds the other Burnaby seat; the other member for Delta is a Social Creditor.

anti-integration disorders at some.

Just one Negro was enrolled at Hattie Cotton, which has a registration of 390 in all its six grades.

Buildings three blocks away were damaged by the explosion. Power service was knocked out in some areas.

The east end of the school was blown out, leaving a hole big enough to drive a truck through.

15 NEGROES

The six grammar schools admitted a total of 15 Negro first-graders in their first step toward court-ordered desegregation of the races. There are 3,500 pupils in the first grade in all of Nashville, with whites totalling 2,000 of this number. However, not all grammar schools were involved in the "first step" integration.

The dynamite blast came only a few hours after police had dispersed a violent crowd of about 500 segregationists who were smashing windshields and windows of Negroes' automobiles with bricks and bottles as they passed Fehr school.

Fehr, which is located in a borderline Negro-white residential district, was the focal point of much of Monday's disorders. One woman was arrested twice.

Police Sgt. John Irwin said he found a detonating cap wire at the scene. He said the dynamite apparently had been exploded in the school's entrance hall. The concussion ripped through the building, blasting every window from the one-story structure.

Nashville is the largest city south of Louisville, Ky., to mix the races and the second state-supported secondary school system in Tennessee to begin desegregation.

ATTACKED

In the other integration developments Monday, Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth, a pro-integration leader at Birmingham, Ala., was attacked by a group of white men when he arrived at a school to help enroll his two daughters and three other negro children.

A policeman who went to the negro's aid also was struck and one of Shuttlesworth's children received a leg injury. Three white men were arrested.

At Dallas, Tex., a federal judge issued an order for integration to begin in the schools at mid-term, Feb. 3. Judge William H. Atwell, who twice before had granted the Dallas school board delays in carrying out integration and was overruled both times by the circuit court of appeals, issued the new order.

School integration for 110,000 pupils of Washington, D.C., schools began with a minimum of confusion. And at New York city, superintendent William Jansen of the largest school system in the U.S. maintained his stand that the integration program must not sacrifice the "neighborhood school concept." A record 1,300,000 children reported for classes in the city.

CROYDON, Eng. (Reuters)

Police pulled a fast one on a mob of howling, lynch-minded women here today to protect a prisoner charged with the sex-slaying of a four-year-old girl.

A crowd of 200 engaged females fought police outside the courthouse in this south London suburb trying to get at factory worker Derrick Ed-wardson, 31, after he was formally charged with the murder of Edwina Taylor.

Shouting "let's get him out" and "turn it over," the women stormed a Black Maria in which they believed Edwardson was huddled under a rug between two policemen.

Two women tried to wrench open the back doors of the truck as it moved through the crowd. It drove off and the mob dispersed.

Two-and-a-half hours later another Maria pulled away, watched by a handful of idle passersby. Police revealed Edwardson was in that truck.

Court spectators jeered and booed when he was led out of court earlier. Edwardson, who gave himself up Monday night, was remained in custody for seven days.

The child's body was found in a pile of coal in the basement of the building in which Edwardson lived.

Edwardson was granted free legal aid. He was brought into court through an underground tunnel to avoid the angry crowds outside. Police searched those entering court for cameras.

Police guarded all entrances to the court in this town on London's southern fringe. Thirty plainclothes police cadets mingled with the public in the gallery.

'No Fuel at Gander', Comet Hop Cancelled

LONDON (AP) — The air ministry today called off what was to have been the first east-west Atlantic crossing by Britain's Comet jet aircraft.

A ministry spokesman said there is not enough jet fuel at Gander, Newfoundland, for the Comet to refuel there.

MARILYN BELL WEDDING INVITATIONS RECEIVED

Wedding invitations have been received in Victoria for the marriage of Marilyn Bell.

The spunky Toronto girl, whose conquest of the Strait of Juan de Fuca thrilled Victorians on the evening of Aug. 23, 1956, shortly will be known as Mrs. Joseph Wesley DiLascio.

She met her future husband, a college graduate and teacher, when he was working as a summer-time lifeguard at Atlantic City.

The wedding takes place at St. Ambrose Church in Alderwood, Ont., at 10 a.m. Sept. 28.

3. It charged that actions of the governor and the guard of officers served to "obstruct and interfere" with the carrying out of a court order to the effect that integration must be allowed to proceed.

4. The court entered a decree of judgment approving the school integration plan approved by the Little Rock school board Aug. 28.

5. The court Sept. 3 issued an order that the school be integrated in accordance with the plan previously approved by the court.

6. On Sept. 7 the court denied an application of the Little Rock school board for a temporary delay of the court order for immediate integration.

Faubus said he "would be willing to meet with anyone" to seek a solution to the bitter struggle over integrating high schools in the Little Rock area.

PORTLAND (AP) — Delegates to the annual meeting of the International Woodworkers of America were told by their president, Al Hartung, Monday that there is only one answer to unemployment—"a shorter work week."

He said it is "time the AFL-CIO takes the lead. We must not wait until millions more become unemployed..." He added that union members shouldn't wait for someone else to oust corrupt union officials.

Death House Traffic Booms in Singapore

SINGAPORE (AP)—Business is booming in Singapore's Chinatown death houses.

About 70 persons a month came to each of the houses to die in loneliness. They are mostly homeless Chinese unable to get back to their birth places for their last hours.

So they, or friends or relatives, pay the death house owners to let them die in tiny stalls they rent for this purpose.

A typical death house in the heart of Chinatown sits alongside stands selling vegetables, live fowl, textiles, nuts, bolts, red candles and coffins.

Wreaths line the pavement in front of the house and two dimly-lit white, lanterns proclaim that a body is lying in state, that of Wong Ah Mei. It is encased in a huge coffin surrounded by offerings of rice, fruits, chicken incense and two red candles.

Wong Ah Mei, like thousands of immigrants from China, was a housemaid or amah. She belonged to the elite of the amahs. Such women vow never to marry and devote themselves to their work. She died at 44.

Death houses here thrive on them because these women have no relatives. They never die in their place of employment if it can be avoided. They often rent a cubicle in a Chinese house to spend days when they have no work. But they never die there. The owners won't allow it, considering that bad luck.

When they feel death is near, they go or are taken to the death houses. The attendants give them a cot in a stall and for a fee feed and care for them until they die. The fee also includes a brass band for the funeral and a coffin which is made across the street.

NANAIMO—The $3,500 budget allowed for prizes in the annual fall fair here will be increased to $5,000 because of the large number of last-minute entries.

It is expected that the entry list will be double that of last year.

It will be opened by Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle C. Westwood.

Fish, Game Chief Pleased by Work At Buttle Lake

CAMPBELL RIVER—Ted Barsby, Nanaimo, president of the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs, who flew in to Buttle Lake over the weekend to inspect the clearing job being done by the B.C. Power Commission, said he was "impressed" by the job being done.

Accompanied by Fred Marshall, a director of the federation, and Lance H. Whittaker, director of public information for the Power Commission, Mr. Barsby saw the entire lake from the air and landed at the north end and at the mouth of Wolf Creek for first-hand impressions of the new shoreline.

With the completion of the Upper Campbell dam, the lake level is now rising and eventually will be 19 feet higher than its original level, storing 700,000 acre-feet of water for utilization by three power commission generating stations on the system.

Mr. Barsby said he was pleased with the way the commission had carried out the provisions of the water licence, "and its obligations to the sportsmen and the people of the province generally." He will report to the executive committee of the federation on his trip.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this new substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations. Pain was promptly relieved, and while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Farmer Chooses Jail Over Fine In Market Case

LADYSMITH—George Wyndlow, Yellow Point district farmer, elected in police court to serve a two-week sentence in Oakalla Prison rather than pay fines imposed for offences under regulations of the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board.

He was convicted several weeks ago of unlawfully selling a regulated product, and of offering such a product for sale. He was fined $25 and $75.50 costs on one charge, and $50 and $5 cost on the other.

Mr. Wyndlow had been charged specifically with selling to a retailer potatoes which did not bear the board's tags or labels, and offering potatoes for sale to the same retailer at a later date.

Marketing board regulations did not prohibit him from selling culled potatoes to the retailer, Edmund Lorne Fuller of Langford, he said, and he got a greater financial return. Mr. Wyndlow said at his earlier trial that the board "was stealing money" from him, and that it had no intention of selling any of his potatoes this year.

Site Selected As Airfield For Albernis

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—A property in Beaver Creek district has been recommended as an airfield by two department of transport engineers who have looked over the area, president Ken Hutcheson reported at Port Alberni and District Chamber of Commerce meeting Monday.

The twin cities will be urged to buy the property and recommendation for its development will go to the department of transport.

Situated on the Shannon Farm, 11 miles north of Alberni, the site eventually would provide over 5,000 feet of air strip. It is a high gravel ridge running parallel to Stamp River.

According to the report, the engineers found a suggested site south of Port Alberni too narrow for safety in landings and take-offs.
